The 10 Greatest.
What Is "Great"?
Good Advertising Copy.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE QUEEN of England was 64 years old yesterday and the British Empire rejoices at her good health. Well it may. Queen Mary attends to her business and sets a good example, from her old-fashioned hats to her old-fashioned shoes, from her kindly but always dignified expression to the long skirts that come down to her ankles.

Others may be foolish; she never will be, and she will make no concession to foolishness.

A good deed "in a naughty world" shines to a considerable distance. A good queen, in a foolish age, is a pleasing light to the British Empire.

DR. WILL DURANT in his "Adventures in Genius" names 10 greatest thinkers in the world's history, and the 10 greatest poets. He includes Voltaire among the thinkers and might have perhaps taken Voltaire's advice definissons nos termes, which means that when we use a word we should be definite about its meaning.

What does Mr. Durant mean by "greatest thinkers"? Does he mean most useful? Probably not. If he did he would put Archimedes in place of Plato, Pasteur in place of St. Thomas Aquinas, Fulton in place of Immanuel Kant, Stephenson, to whom we owe the locomotive, in place of Aristotle.

IN HIS LIST of the 10 greatest poets Villon should have a place. The prayer addressed to the Virgin Mary that Villon wrote for his mother is far above anything that Walt Whitman ever wrote.

What is your definition of "GREATNESS"?

The suggestion to "get going again, now," the advice to change our mental outlook, go somewhere—do something, should be followed by the little individuals moping, and by those in authority—especially the "DO SOMETHING."

AN ENGLISH LADY who had devoted her life to horse racing, orders her relatives to cremate her body and scatter the ashes on the racetrack. She liked to think of the "thundering hoofs" coming down the stretch to victory over her dust. She might no longer see or hear them; but perhaps she could feel them.

MANY DESIRE that something "appropriate" be done with their ashes. Several have been scattered from the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor, some want to be thrown into the water far out at sea, a number have ordered their ashes scattered from flying machines.

A considerable number just now might want their ashes scattered over the floor of the Wall street Stock Exchange, but the exchange would not permit that. Fortunately it doesn't much matter. Whatever has happened to us happened millions of miles back in space. We have rushed far from that spot on our journey with the sun and we shall never go back there.

THE POPE protests against the Spanish republic's decrees that Spain no longer has an official religion, all religions having the same standing in the eye of the government.

The protest is not understood to be against the separation of church and state, a condition that certainly has not hurt the Catholic church, increasing in numbers and prosperity in America.

The protest, rather, is against abolition of an agreement without discussion and a hearing on both sides.

MORE SERIOUS and puzzling is news from Rome of an attack by a Fascist "Black Shirt" and a Fascist militia officer upon the drivers of a Vatican City mail van, carrying the personal mail of Pope Pius XI. As the Pope's mail van was passing Fascist headquarters, the Fascists attacked and beat the drivers of the van, temporarily caught in the jam of a Fascist parade.

The Pope has been earnest in his criticism of all Fascist activities, particularly Fascist control of Italian schools, of which he did not approve. But it was not known that any deep resentment had been caused.

French railroad men investigating safety devices on the Central Railroad of New Jersey are amazed at their efficiency, making front or rear collisions impossible.

Gen. Atterbury, head of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with his electrified system will cut the running time between New York and Washington to four hours.

The Baltimore and Ohio has installed New York-to-Washington trains "air-controlled," with a device regulating the temperature, supplying air, dust-free, mechanically "gently circulated and expelled."

DO THE RAILROADS maintain elaborate laboratories for experiments like those of great industrial units, General Electric, Standard Oil, etc., to develop new ideas?

Is there, for instance, any railroad department to try out the Swiss invention of a three-ton aluminum car, driven over 300 miles an hour by an airplane propeller, or a somewhat

SCHOOL ROW MAY BLOCK DIPLOMAS

Pupils' Gifts to 3 Teachers Causes Springdale High Head to Threaten Class

A controversy over the expenditure of funds of the graduating class of Springdale High School that developed at the class night exercises last night between members of the faculty and the students, ended today a threat to hold up the presentation of diplomas, which were to be given tomorrow night was withdrawn.

Springdale seniors said school officials ended the class day exercises by refusing to permit the presentation of a set of golf clubs to George T. Welsh, history teacher. The presentation will be made at tomorrow night, students reported. There is still $113.43 in the class treasury, it was said.

BLAME PRINCIPAL

Supervising Principal Loyal S. Marshall explained that the controversy arose when members of the class purchased the gifts with class money before making a report of the group's financial status, and without going through the proper channels. He said:

"I told the boys that they were not graduated yet, and that so far as I was concerned, if they did not comply with school regulations as regards the handling of class funds, I certainly would not be in favor of giving them their diplomas."

WANTS RULES OBEYED

"I also told the boys that if the school board awarded them their diplomas it would be without my sanction. They know well enough that once they adhere to the principles set up in other years with regard to class funds, that all objections will be overruled."

Oxygen Supply Gone, Metal Ball Feared Helpless

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 27.—(AP.)—Apprehension was beginning to manifest itself this afternoon at the Reidinger balloon works here over the safety of Prof. August Piccard and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, who started early today in a giant balloon to explore the stratosphere.

In his hermetically sealed aluminum ball Prof. Piccard had oxygen gas for only 10 hours, and he himself counted on a flight of only five to seven hours. The balloon left the ground here at 3:55 a. m. At 4:15 p. m. no word had been received as to its landing. It was reported this afternoon drifting over Schongau, Bavaria, at about 27,000 feet eleveation and a little later was sighted south of Kochel Lake at a great altitude. It seemed to be suspended in a windless layer of air.

OUT OF SIGHT

Six hours after the huge balloon took off from a field near Augsburg it passed completely out of the range of vision. Observers expressed the belief the balloonists had succeeded in entering the "stratosphere."

Balked in two previous attempts, Prof. Piccard started out this morning confident that the perfectly calm weather prevailing would enable him to rise 10 miles above the earth in an effort to obtain data on the origin of cosmic rays, which were discovered by the American scientist, Prof. Robert A. Millikan, several years ago.

EIGHT-MILE RECORD

The highest altitude to which man has ever flown is 43,166 feet, or a little less than 8 1-6 miles.

Lieut. Apolla Soucek, U. S. N., made that record on June 4, 1930, in an airplane. The flight took him two hours and 10 minutes and he said afterward the temperature was about 60 degrees below zero.

BANDITS SHOOT STORE HEAD

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 27.—(INS.)—Defying a bandit gang with the same spirit in which he fought the famous Indiana chain store tax law, Lafayette Jackson, 70-year-old president of the Standard Grocery Chain of Indiana, went down before a hail of lead in his downtown office here today whiel emptying his gun into the faces of the men. He received probable fatal wounds.

Detective Sergt. Charles Bauer was shot in the head when he went to Jackson's aid.

Two of the bandits, one carrying a machine gun and the other a sawed-off shotgun and a 45-caliber revolver, entered the store. A third bandit remained at the wheel of the bandit car. A fourth member wore a large wild western type of sombrero and sat straddling the hood of the engine of the bandit car, holding a machine gun in his lap.

Baby's Tears in Court Room Fail to Reunite Parents

Moved by the tears of a 2-year-old child, Judge Richard A. Kennedy yesterday made a futile attempt to reconcile the child's youthful parents.

Charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Gray, 19, of 39 Southern avenue, Frank Gray, 21, of 183 Belonda street, appeared before Judge Kennedy. The child, Shirley, 2, entered the court room with her mother. Seeing her father across the room, she rushed into his arms.

Judge Kennedy intervened and urged the parents to reconsider their difficulties. Mrs. Gray refused and upon the completion of the testimony, Judge Kennedy directed Gray to pay his wife $5 weekly for the support of his wife and child. Attorney Blanche B. Levy represented Mrs. Gray.

DR. MACARTNEY SCORES BIRTH CONTROL

Opens War on Presbyterian Report as Hosts Gather Here for 143rd Assembly

Describing birth control as un-Christian, the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church and former moderator, today renewed his attack upon the report of the Special Commission on Marriage, Divorce and Remarriage, on the eve of the opening of the one hundred and forty-third General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

Speaking at a pre-assembly conference on evangelism, Dr. Macartney said birth control was "a denial of the truth of God."

There was a general feeling that the report would be promptly tabled when it is submitted on the floor of the assembly on next Monday, although there were others who inclined to the belief that the Rev. Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis, of Erie, chairman of the commission, would not accede to such a summary dismissal. Predictions were made that should the report be left open for debate, a stormy session would probably ensue.

BIRTH CONTROL FOE

Dr. Macartney has long been a foe of birth control and on frequent occasions has been bitter in his condemnation of the effort to obtain approval of the practice by the General Assembly. He is not a commissioner to the General Assembly but his utterances are given considerable weight.

Other pre-assembly gatherings today included:

The general council's executive sessions in the First United Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Dr. C. Franklin Ward presiding.

The City Church Extension Council sessions in the Keystone Athletic Club with the Rev. Theo-

It's Late in Day To Halt Market Raiding by Bears

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

New York Stock Exchange is going to stop raiding by the bears.

That's locking the garage door after the flivver is on the grade-crossing.

It's a two-way street with one set of traffic rules. They get you coming and going.

Eliminating the shorts will restore public confidence. Well, we've seen goldfish come to life in salt. But they never swam again with their old-time authority.

As an ex-officio member of the Wall street public we refuse to go into a telephone booth without a parachute strapped on our back.

And as to restoring confidence, well, the exhausted caddy dreads the duffer.

The bears are the boys who made all the trouble when the public went on that berry-picking expedition two years ago.

PARK MEETS CITIZENS' GROUP

Attorneys, Auditors Confer Over Findings Made in Probe; Decision Withheld

Prosecution of persons named in the investigation of city contracts loomed today as a Citizens' Committee called upon District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

The conference itself was regarded at the Courthouse as a move toward prosecution.

The committee consisted of Attorneys Earl F. Reed, W. S. Dalzell and William R. Scott, L. M. Johnston, chairman of the joint executive committee of the Citizens' Committee and the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, and M. C. Conick.n the Main & Co., auditors for the counsel mittee. tt.

The conference lasted for 70is minutes, except for Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Lang-fitt, who left the meeting room's after two minutes. Langfitt had n no comment to make.

Both Johnston and Park announced that a second meeting had been scheduled for 11 a. m., s Friday. Johnston added:

And Park said:

"I don't want to say anything until after another conference Friday. The committee did not bring any papers or documentary evidence to this preliminary conference. We had a general discussion, and I will turn the matter over in my mind between now and Friday, when we will go into the matter much more fully. Then when I digest it I'll have a statement to make."

The conference coincided with the virtual completion of the dual audit of contracts awarded by the Department of Supplies during the regime of B. L. Succop, fired as director by Mayor Kline after his department was under fire.

Making the investigation were two accounting firms—one hired by the city, the other representing the Citizens' Committee and the League of Women Voters.

CONTRACT LOSS DENIED BY KERR

The Citizens' Committee which has been conducting an audit of the records of the Department of Supplies, today charged that copies of contracts for the purchase of $16,000 worth of auto tires in 1930 were missing.

To this Controller J. P. Kerr replied that such contracts never existed, because the city did not buy its tires on contract last year.

In a letter to Dr. Kerr the committee reported it could not find copies of contracts awarded Glick Auto Supply Company, Penn Tire Company and Popular Supply Shop.

Tabulation showed that the Glick company, offering a 10 per cent discount, was given one contract for United States tires when the Kress Brothers offered 19 per cent discount for the same tire.

These tires were bought by the city after being selected by B. L. Succop, later fired as director of supplies.

Amos 'n' Andy Broadcast Here, Bemoan Laughs

Amos 'n' Andy (Freeman F. Gosden and Charles Correll) stopped off in Pittsburgh to broadcast their program today while en route to Chicago from New York, and to ask how Pittsburghers felt about Ruby Taylor's sickness.

Amos explained:

"We were trying to show that right thinking, belief in God and will power can do lots to pull a sick person through. We thought it might do some good for those who were sick in hospitals."

Amos has a keen sense of humor and frequently breaks out in laughter over some of Andy's "gags," the latter said, explaining why their programs are often broken by Amos' hearty chuckle.

This is taken seriously by Amos, who said:

"I've got to stop that."

The famous entertainers are enthusiastic about their one-thousandth episode in the Amos 'n' Andy series, which will be given June 6.

Tonight they will give their 7 and 11 o'clock broadcasts over Station KDKA.

They denied they are planning to campaign for President Hoover, as indicated by a Washington newspaper story Monday.

Mrs. Correll was with them at William Penn Hotel, but Mrs. Gosden went on to Chicago. To those who wanted an opportunity to see them broadcast they explained that even their wives are denied that privilege.

FARRELL URGES HIGHER PRICES TO IMPROVE BUSINESS

STEEL MAGNATE EXPRESSES OPTIMISM

Foreign Trade Council Told World Has Gained By Hard Time Chastening

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Higher prices for goods is an "essential requirement" toward improving business conditions, James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, declared in an address today opening the three-day convention of the National Foreign Trade Council, of which he is chairman.

Mr. Farrell's subject was "the world trade outlook today," and in masterly fashion he discussed the economic difficulties that are confronting nations all over the globe, including the United States.

SAYS WORLD GAINS

He contended that, regardless of the trade losses sustained in the past two years the world has "gained materially by the chastening discipline of hard times."

Mr. Farrell said:

"An essential requirement of the present economic situation is an advance in commodity prices. When prices fall, buyers withdraw from the market. It is rising prices that stimulate buying and consumption, and a return to prosperous times. Anything, therefore, which tends to postpone recovery in commodity prices, more especially those influences which are unfair and uneconomic in character, should be discountenanced at the present time."

LAMONT OPTIMISTIC

There is no sound reason for the extreme pessimism rampant today, Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., told the delegates.

Lamont struck an extremely optimistic note in his talk and he was greeted by cheers when he said that while the world is undoubtedly passing through a period of depression prosperity is bound to come.

Lamont also declared that the United States should not "erect artificial barriers against foreign trade," but to make trade as easy as possible.

OHIO TRUSTEES BACK 'FIRING'

COLUMBUS, O., May 27.—(AP.)—The Board of Trustees and President G. W. Rightmire of Ohio State University, stood their ground today against a flurry of opposition to the dismissal of Prof. Herbert A. Miller as head of the sociology department.

In a joint statement last night, the board and the president declared Prof. Miller, supporter of Mahatma Gandhi, had not supplied them with a full account of an address he delivered at an Indian civil disobedience meeting at Bombay last year.

The trustees' statement was in answer to Prof. Miller's previous assertion that he was being dismissed because the chairman of the board, Julius Stone, wanted him out.

DREW FAVORED FOR SUPREME COURT

Pittsburgher Gains Strength As Time Limit for Pinchot Appointment Draws Near

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Gov. Pinchot, who must fill the vacancy to the Supreme Court created by the death of Justice Sylvester B. Sadler within the next 48 hours or allow it to go unfilled, was reported today to have the names of Judge James B. Drew and William H. Keller before him.

Both are members of the Superior Court. Drew is from Pittsburgh, and Keller from Lancaster County.

Although rumors more than a month ago fastened upon both Drew and Keller, discussion concerning them bobbed up today, when Drew was mentioned more favorably for the post.

Drew was elected last fall to the Superior Court after spending a number of years on the Allegheny County bench.

The name of a superintendent of instruction, which also is expected to be sent to the Executive Nominations Committee of the Senate for confirmation, must go in today or tomorrow. James N. Rule, former Pittsburgh school principal and now acting head, is supposed to have found favor, with considerable pressure exerted on the Governor from mutual friends and supporters.

CHURCHES JOIN IN EXPOSITION

Dr. J. W. Claudy, of Pittsburgh, and the Rev. George C. Dowey, of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, are in charge of the exhibition. A feature will be a reproduction of the old Second Presbyterian Church.

ARMY AIRMEN AT SEASHORE

NEW YORK, May 27.—(INS.)—The Jersey shore was the rendezvous of the greatest air armada of the world today, with parade formation above Atlantic City's boardwalk, Trenton's river front and the Newark municipal airport.

Running smoothly as clockwork, the 672 plane Army Air Corps formation went forward without the hindrance of its mythical naval enemy in the New York and Boston area. The enemy had disappeared.

New Yorkers get their third chance to see the big formation in the air over Floyd Bennett field late this afternoon. Tomorrow will be "maintenance day" on the Long Island fields, with a rest for the pilots.

WILKINS SPURS DEPARTURE FROM U. S.

Sir Hubert Joins Nautilus Crew in Final Jobs Before Starting North Pole Trip

Universal Service.

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 27.—Under the personal direction of Sir Hubert Wilkins all hands, officers and men, aboard the trans-Arctic submarine Nautilus were working feverishly today to get the tiny iron whale ready to leave the shores of America.

Sir Hubert intimated this port, instead of Provincetown, Mass., may witness the dramatic farewell on the start for the North Pole.

In working togs, Sir Hubert himself was lending a hand throughout the final preparations, wielding wrenches and offering his broad shoulders to hoisting gear.

It is probable the Nautilus will strike directly across the ocean, following the ship lanes, and heading for Bergen, Norway, where she will take on her final cargo of food.

Coolidge Looks to Youth For World Reconstruction

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 27.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Some of the younger generation the world over are complaining because they have to bear the obligations coming to them from the past. They assert that as they did not create such obligations they ought not to have to discharge them. They apply this reasoning particularly to conditions arising out of the war.

Mr. Coolidge

It would be wonderful if we could be relieved of all the mistakes and debts and enjoy only the wisdom and property of the past. Unfortunately that is impossible. We have to take the world as it is. The liabilities cannot be separated from the assets. If the new generation enjoys the advantages of the scholarship, inventions and accumulations of past ages it cannot successfully repudiate the charges with which the inheritance is burdened.

No possibilitiy exists of restoring the world from the ravages of the war except by a long, hard, laborious process. Any concerted effort to seek a remedy in any other direction would result only in destroying the great values which now exist. There is no salvation in repudiation or confiscation. All past experience indicates that the youth of the world ultimately will recognize this and have the courage and character to provide the necessary reconstruction.

POPE DISPLEASED BY MUSSOLINI'S DRESS DECREE

FASCIST WOMEN TOLD TO WEAR KNICKERS

Tension Between Church and State Grows as Fascists Attack Catholic Paper

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, May 27.—With tenseness already reported existing between the Italian government and the Vatican because of charges and counter-charges of intimidation, violence and interference on the part of Church and Fascist organizations, a new conflict loomed today on the question of women's attire.

An unfavorable pronouncement was expected to be made by Pope Pius XI against the order of Premier Mussolini decreeing immediate formation of women Fascist groups throughout the country. His order directed them to parade in a uniform consisting of breeches, black woolen stockings, leggings, a black shirt and an Alpine felt hat.

POPE'S ATTITUDE KNOWN

On several occasions, Pope Pius has expressed himself in no uncertain terms on the subject of modesty in women's dress and is understood to be particularly opposed to women appearing in costumes of the sort ordained by Mussolini.

AWAIT DRESSES' APPEARANCE

His pronouncement against the women Fascisti is expected to be made as soon as the first "knickerbockered" women appear in public.

Meanwhile tension between Church and State was heightened this afternoon by a new series of attacks by Fascist students upon Catholis institutions and individuals.

A band of students assaulted the headquarters of the Azione Cattolica, the national organization of Catholis youth, smashing a number of windows before they were dispersed. The mob then attempted to attack Count Bellatore, editor of the semi-official Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano, who escaped and took refuge in the Vatican before he suffered any harm.

The Vatican issued an official statement earlier in the day, branding as false the charges made by the Fascist newspaper Lavora Fascista that the Azzione Cattolica was working against Fascism.

BONUS ROBBERY CHARGE FAILS

A jury in Criminal Court today decided one phase of the soldiers' bonus question by bringing in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Harry V. Sill, 23, of 314 Dawn street. He was charged with the larceny of a portion of the 403 bonus money that Patrick D. Carr, 35, of 218 Maple Terrace drew.

It was brought out at the trial before Visiting Judge Norman T. Boose that Carr had given Sill $20 to get some liquor with which to celebrate getting his bonus April 14. Sill got a gallon of it, according to the testimony, and helped Carr and Al Urban, another veteran, drink it. The next day Sill bought an automobile and a suit of clothes.

Sill testified that Carr gave him $150. The jury believed him.

Urban testified that when he saw how easy bonus money changes hands, he drew $190 bonus money and gave all but $10 of it to his mother.

CLEVELAND, May 27.—(AP.)—Antonin Tulinov, student at Case School of Applied Science here, who feared he would be deported to Russia, where a death sentence awaits him, had assurances today that he probably will be allowed to remain in the United States as long as he desires.

Department of Labor officials said aliens cannot be deported without consent of the country to which they would be sent. They added that the United States has not deported anyone to Russia in more than 10 years because the government has no official communication with that country.

Tulinov will receive a master of science degree at Case Thursday and is here on a student passport, which will terminate shortly after the diploma is awarded.

Harlan had been indicted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter after an auto he was driving struck Vollmer July 23, 1930.

INSURANCE MAN SEES REVIVAL

"Crabbers" and those who spread false rumors are blamed for the present business depression by Roger Hull, of New York, managing director of the National Life Underwriters' Association. Hull was in Pittsburgh today conferring with Holgar Johnson, president of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' Association, concerning the forty-second annual convention of the national association, to be held here during the week of September 21. Hull said:

"Too many men have become scarecrows of imaginary disasters and are hoarding the dollar at a time when it is worth about $1.30 and ought to be at work creating jobs for the unemployed. We need courageous optimism; not an idle optimism or hustling in the dark to keep up our courage, but one that is based on facts and faith."

Couldn't railroads combine to make such experiments to benefit all? Or would the antiquated Sherman act perhaps forbid it?

LEARN FROM G. F. Swift, president of the big packing company, that "beef prices are now the lowest since September, 1926."

Housewives should demand that retail butchers charge proportionately reasonable prices.

This is said in the interest of retailers and consumers, and particularly of the farmers that raise cattle.

Prices are so low, that live stock producers, making no profit, are abandoning or minimizing stock raising. If that continues there will come a shortage with much higher prices, harmful to retailers and consumers.

Retailers should hand on to consumers the benefit of lower prices. And the public should remember that good meat is essential to vigorous health. There is no substitute for it.

When court adjourned yesterday, seven women and five men had been tentatively selected to hear the case. All revealed they did not object to "anyone taking a little drink."

The prosecution met with objections when it sought to ascertain the attitude of jurors toward a defendant accused of a moral charge against a minor, regardless of her past life.

Policemen P. J. Tierney and Raymond Petty, first to reach the house, said they had learned that Mock had been employed only part time for several months, and apparently was despondent. Besides Thomas and Stephen, the Mocks leave three other children, Helen, 21, Pauline, 16, and Peter, 24.

KIRKLAND GETS 1-10 YEARS IN REFORMATORY

Armed Guards Start Youth On Way to Serve Term for Girl's Gin Party Death

International News Service.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 27.—Under guard to prevent any possible attempts on his life, Virgil Kirkland, 20, was today sentenced to one to 10 years in the Indiana State Reformatory for assault and battery with intent to commit a criminal attack on his young sweetheart, Arlene Draves.

He will be eligible for parole at the end of a year.

FIRST TRIAL VOIDED

The former Gary (Ind.) High School football star received a sentence of life imprisonment at the first trial in connection with the death of Arlene at a liquor party last November. The verdict was voided by discovery of an error in trial procedure.

After the verdict was returned last night it was reported that three members of the jury said they thought they were voting a more severe penalty.

SECOND VERDICT FINAL

Prosecutor Robert G. Estill at first said he would ask the court to delay sentencing Kirkland until an investigation could be made. This plan was discarded after it was learned that under the Indiana law a jury cannot impeach its own verdict.

Disappointed at the verdict the state said charges against the four co-defendants with Kirkland would be dropped. The four, Leon Stanford, Paul Barton, Henry Shirk and David Thompson have been held in jail since the night Arlene died.

FATHER MAKES THREAT

Charles Draves, father of the dead girl, left the courtroom shaking his fist and shouting:

"You haven't heard the last of this yet."

After spending a night in the same cell block which housed Kirkland, Dr. Orlando F. Scott, the alienist who testified in his behalf, was released today when Attorney John Crumpacker, son of the judge and one of Kirkland's defense counsel, signed a $100 bond.

Dr. Scott is scheduled to appear in City Court Friday here to face charges of drunkenness. He was arrested last night after the Kirkland verdict was returned.

SPIRITUALIST FINED $5

Mrs. Hasley was arrested in East Diamond street, North Side, by Patrolman Claude Polichetti, Sunday. She told Jones the officer twisted and injured her arm and shoulder and scratched her hand. Polichetti, however, said, when he tried to arrest her, she forcibly resisted and tried to tear off his badge.

Mrs. Hasley's hand was in bandages when she appeared in court.

Unconscious 286 Hours, Child Fights for Life

Little Billy Armitage strove valiantly for life as he entered his twenty-eighth hour of unconsciousness at 2 p. m. today in the Citizens' General Hospital at New Kensington. Doctors hoped his condition would improve enough to permit them to operate on the blood clot on his brain.

Billy was struck by an automobile in the Leechburg road as he returned from school, May 15.

All hope that little John Ginkel, 7, of Freyburg, Clarion county, had coughed up part of a lip stick container which has been lodged in his throat since Friday was dispelled today when X-ray showed the metal still there.

John, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Ginkel, swallowed the container while using it as a whistle. Doctors, who tried to remove it without an operation, failed.

Another operation will be performed after the lad has rested for a day or so, doctors said today.

FATE OF POLICE BILL RESTS IN CONFERENCE

Fight to Restore Musmanno Aims to Measure Shifts To House-Senate Parley

HARRISBURG, May 27.

Members of the Conference Committee of House and Senate will be named today to consider further the Musmanno coal and iron police bill.

The measure, returned from the Senate last night, met the House refusal to agree to the amendments by which the Senate Judiciary General Committee "butchered" the bill.

The refusal to agree to the amendments threw it into conference. Unless a friendly senator is named, the bill is unlikely to emerge before the end of the session, predicted for tomorrow.

It will probably be one of the last bills to be considered, but it was the first to be presented.

MUSMANNO FIGHTS ON

M. A. Musmanno, its sponsor, made the motion last night to the House that it refuse to accept the amendments.

In an attack on the Judiciary General Committee and other members of the Senate Musmanno charged that they cut the heart out of his bill by amendments deleting the provisions which reduced the coal and iron police to property guards. He said:

"I ask you not to concur in these amendments, because they have completely alienated the original purpose of the bill. The Senate's Judiciary General Committee cut out its very heart. They mangled it the same as the coal and iron police mangled John Borkowski.

'PEOPLE BETRAYED'

"It may not hang to them, but they must answer to an outraged people, it means that they have betrayed the people of Western Pennsylvania who need the protection this measure would afford.

"By it they have condoned the acts of the guerillas who killed Borkowski, who fired on school children at Bruceton—the gangsters and thugs who, in the name of police, have committed brutalities."

FEUD AIDS BILLS LABOR BACKS

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Organized labor has won a victory through the political hostility of the Senate Judiciary General Committee to former Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Two bills, backed by labor, to limit use of court injunctions in labor disputes, were reported to the Senate calendar and are scheduled for second reading today. Gov. Pinchot on Monday urged action on these and three other bills, and is expected to approve the injunction measures if they reach him. The Senate Committee, it is understood, will take favorable action on the bills in hope the Governor by approving them would alienate the support of his political ally, ex-Senator Grundy.

The injunction bills were sponsored by Representative J. Gordon Mason, Luzerne, and passed the House Monday night. One would restrict issuance of labor injunctions to open court, prohibiting the granting of them in judge's chambers. The second would require trial by jury in charges of contempt of court for violation of the injunctions.

MINERS STRIKE ON WAGE CUT

More than a thousand Washington County coal miners were on strike today at three mines of the Carnegie Coal Corporation in protest of proposed wage cuts ranging from 44 to 40 cents a ton.

District Secretary Vincent Kemenovich, of the National Miners Union, said the men were employed in the Atlasburg mine, Burgettstown; the McDonald mine, McDonald, and Cedar Grove, Studa. The miners demand an increase to 52 cents a ton for piece work and $5 for day work.

Yesterday P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5 United Mine Workers, said 4,000 men employed in Pursglove Coal Mining Company and Paisley interests mines in the Pittsburgh district would be called on a strike within a few days.

UTILITIES BILL SIDETRACKED IN HOUSE

Chester Member Charges Pinchot Forces of Trying To Kill McClure Measure

HARRISBURG, May 27.—The amended McClure bill on public utilities was recommitted today by the House. It was on the calendar for final action when the administration forces moved to return it to the utilities committee for amendment.

As it appeared on the calendar the bill was defective in that the title granted the Governor power to dismiss public service commissioners, while that section was stricken from the bill yesterday.

Representative Wilson, of McKean, made the motion to have the bill returned to the committee. This was opposed by Representative Turner, of Delaware, who contended that the purpose of recommitting the bill was to "kill it."

The McClure bill, as passed by the Senate, was in reality a new Public Service code. It provided control over security issues, a waiting period before rate increases can become effective, procedure relative to court appeals, and a "people's counsel." The House utilities committee struck out the "people's counsel" provision and inserted the "hire and fire" clause.

This latter provision was struck out yesterday in a surprise move.

Wilson contended the House in past occasions voted for legislation containing the "hire and fire" clause. He said he would not vote for the McClure bill without that provision.

COYNE METRO BILL REPORTED

HARRISBURG, May 27.—The consolidated city charter bill, which would make Allegheny County the city of Pittsburgh, came out of conference today, with the amendment suggested by Representative Carl Baldrige cut out.

The measure, sponsored by Senator James J. Coyne, originally provided that the plan, a constitutional amendment, could be submitted to the people every two years. Baldrige had it amended to five years, and the conference committee put the limit back to two again.

Final passage awaits the measure in both houses.

PINCHOT PLANS LABOR PARLEY

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Gov. Pinchot has invited 10 governors to attend or send representatives to an industrial and labor conference to be held here June 19 and 20, it was learned today.

The ten chief executives will discuss the leading problems and conflicts of labor and industry it is understood, with workmen's compensation one of the major subjects.

The states to be represented are those close to Pennsylvania, it was reported, among those listed being New York, Deleware, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio and possibly Virginia.

HARRIS TO LEAD MACHINE QUIZ

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Senator Frank J. Harris will be named chairman of the Senate committee investigating the voting machine situation, at an organization meeting to be held late today, it was indicated.

The four others besides Harris who are to make up the committee include Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., of Pittsburgh; Chauncey Parkinson, of Waynesburg; John W. Howell, of Scranton, and William C. Freeman, of Cornwall, Lebanon County.

Plans will be completed for a thorough investigation of the voting machine delays in counties that have voted to install machines.

House Gag Rule On Dry Vote Scored

HARRISBURG, May 27.—(AP.)—Representative Byers, of Philadelphia, today attacked the law and order committee from the floor for failure to give the House an opportunity to vote on a resolution for a referendum on the prohibition question.

The Philadelphia member denounced "government by committee," asserting:

"The curse of this country today is too much politics, and government by unseen powers. Why talk about law enforcement and law breakers when the fault lies at our own door?"

Backfire Damages West End Patrol

The patrol of West End Police Station was damaged early today when the engine backfired while it was being driven in Grandview avenue near the Duquesne incline, according to a police report. It was sent to the municipal garage for repairs.

STATE BUILDING FUND APPROVED

HARRISBURG, May 27.—The Pinchot administration bill appropriating $11,945,010 for construction at state institutions has received final approval from the Senate. It is one of the administration bills to increase employment.

Bills appropriating $7,990,000 to 300 state-aided hospitals, and $789,900 to state-aided homes, were delayed in the Senate for final action today to permit increases in grants for several institutions.

The general appropriation bill to finance expenses of the state government for the two years starting June 1, came to the Senate calendar for final action today. Its total, $153,123,017 represents an increase of $3,545,000 in the bill since its passage by the House.

Depression Largely Mental, Says Drexel

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP.)—Returning from nine months spent abroad, Anthony J. Drexel, Philadelphia and New York financier, said:

"There is no reason whatever for this hysteria of depression. It is largely, as Mr. Hoover recently suggested, a mental state, and the sooner we get over it the better."

ASSEMBLY ENDS TOMORROW

HARRISBURG, May 27.—(INS.)—With calendars notably lightened by long sessions both houses of the Legislature today began what was slated to be the last full day of the 1931 session. Sine die adjournment of the Assembly has been set for noon tomorrow.

Senate and House each worked furiously to catch up on their calendars and when they recessed early this morning had acted on all pending final reading bills before them.

Last night, its immediate work done, the House indulged in its annual night of horseplay to mark the closing session. Bills over which members fought all session were ripped from their holders, torn to shreds and hurled aloft. Others were wadded up and members pelted each other with favorite measures now in the legislative "bone yard."

WORLD PARLEY ON DOPE OPENS IN GENEVA

Delegates of 47 Nations Present, Some With Novel Plans to End Narcotic Evil

By WINIFRED BLACK

GENEVA, May 27. — The Quai Wilson, a shady promenade along the lake in quiet, staid Geneva, is the most cosmopolitan street in the world today.

Forty-seven delegates to the League of Nations' international narcotic conference, and their friends, cousins and brothers-in-law from 47 countries, have arrived for the conference, which begins today.

MANY PLANS OFFERED

Everyone has a brand-new idea—or a very old idea made over to look new—which is going to break the back of the dope ring for ever and a day.

Government ownership of factories—government limitation of factories—tear up the poppies—cut down the coco trees if you have to decimate the great forests of the Andes to do it.

These fantastic and impractical ideas leap from tongue to tongue like the chatter of parrots in a jungle along the Amazon.

The delegate from Ireland swings along just ahead of the distinguished representative from Turkey, who is expected to turn the conference upside down with his amazing modern ideas.

NOT ALL HARMONY

But all is not harmony and sweet accord in the swarm—not yet. The conference has not been called to order, and already alien bumblebees have invaded the neighborhood, and things are beginning to hum.

Only Senor Blanco, head of the Anti-Opium Information Bureau, has already presented the delegates with what he calls a communique.

The senor has attended all the opium conferences since the beginning of the League. He says in plain English and fluent French that the world is losing faith in the League's opium activities. The conference will have to get down to business or the man in the street will be through with this branch of the League of Nations.

The senor asks some very leading questions concerning governments which appear to think on Monday that codein is a harmless drug, on Tuesday that it's a habit-forming drug, and on Wednesday it doesn't make any difference what you think it is—there's no use trying to stop either its manufacture or its distribution.

Millionaire's Son Brings Notoriety to Clara Bow

Jilted, Tries Suicide; Gary Cooper Made Leading Man

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor, Universal Service

(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

CHAPTER IX.

Romance was important to Clara in San Antonio, but when she returned to Hollywood she found something far more vital facing her. Her father had married Idella Mowrey, a clerk in a drug store.

"I wanted my dad to be happy," said Clara. "I knew something of the life he led while my mother was sick, but the thought that he had chosen someone to take my mother's place almost killed me. I had a terrible struggle with myself to be nice to my father's wife. All the time I kept saying to myself, 'What is mother thinking? Would she like my father to have someone else in her place?'"

Robert Bow will tell you that Idella Mowrey never took Sarah Bow's place.

"I tried to tell Miss Mowrey that I was too old for her," said Mr. Bow, "but she calmed my fears by saying that she had never cared for young men. 'You are my ideal,' she told me."

The wedding night of Robert Bow was anything but happy. His bride refused to spend the night with him.

"Let's go home and live with Clara," she said.

Clara Affable

I think I have told you that Robert Bow has much of Clara's gullibility. He trusts easily, and he did not know that Idella Mowrey had married him because he was Clara Bow's father.

Eager to please his bride, he took her to Clara's home. The average daughter would have said, "You have married—now take your wife to your own home." But Clara, always kind and generous, made her father and his new wife comfortable and extended every courtesy to the new Mrs. Bow.

The next day, Robert Bow's bride said she wanted to go to the beach and pick up some of her clothes.

She stopped at a candy store on Hollywood boulevard and that is the last he ever saw of her. She slipped out the back way and for two months he searched for her. The next time he heard of his runaway wife was when he was presented with divorce papers.

Later, the marriage of Robert Bow and Idella Mowrey was annulled, but it made a great difference in Clara's life. Her adored father had been made to suffer. She looked on other women who sought to marry him with suspicion. She was a little bitter to think that anyone could have brought so much undeserved suffering to her father. This was her first unpleasant publicity.

Meets Rich Youth

Aside from this, Clara's return to Hollywood was peaceful enough and she found herself, after the making of "Wings," none the worse for her adventure. She had achieved a fine friendship with Victor Fleming. She had met a man, who in the knowledge of books and life, had more to give her than any man she had ever met. It was late in the fall of 1926 that Clara met Robert Savage, son of a millionaire steel manufacturer who lived in La Jolla, Cal.

Young Savage with more money to spend than is good for any young man, sought Clara with letters of introduction from mutual friends. He had seen the popular screen flapper, who in 1926 was the idol of every college youth in the country. He longed to meet her.

With the generosity so characteristic of her, Clara, not wanting to hurt him, invited him to call at her house. He hadn't been there twice before she was bored with his attentions. He started to make ardent love to her and Clara, amused at his insistence, permitted him to read poems that he wrote and dedicated to her. But she turned a cold shoulder on his love making.

Love Spurned

At that time, Tui Lorraine, Clara's pal, who later became her stepmother, was living with Clara.

"I know," Tui told me, "that Clara has encouraged many of her suitors, but I can say positively that she never let Savage think that she would marry him. Why, we used to put him out of the house and the next morning we would find him sleeping on the front porch."

After the little Bow girl became thoroughly wearied of Savage's love making and his silly poems she refused to see him. Imagine then, her surprise when the newspapers carried headlines telling of the attempted suicide of Robert Savage who tried to end all for love of Clara Bow.

Savage was nothing if not romantic. He had figured in a quixotic affair earlier. He had married pretty Geneva Mitchell, the pride of the 1925 "Follies." His actions in that marriage had made front page copy long before he had met Clara, and he found it not unpleasant to again find himself in the public eye. He attempted suicide by slashing his wrists and then permitting the blood to drip on Clara's photograph. This performance gave Clara the first undesirable publicity in which she was personally involved. She grieved over the stories in the newspapers, fretting because Savage gave the impression she had promised to marry him and that he was killing himself because of unrequited love.

Victor Fleming, her pseudo fiance, came to the rescue with excellently planned interviews in which he stated that Clara was to become his bride and that Robert Savage meant nothing to her.

Fleming Helps

Less calm than Victor Fleming was the hot-blooded Latin, Gilbert Roland. As soon as he read the paper, he rushed to Clara's house, crying:

"I will meet him on the dueling field! I will fight him man to man!"

Clara calmed the tempestuous Gilbert by saying that she was perfectly capable of fighting her own battles. On occasions, when a question of strength came up, Clara would roll up her sleeves and exhibit her iron muscles. Curiously enough, she has muscles on her arms that stand out like whipcord.

The attitude of Victor Fleming was much more like that of a father than that of a passionate young suitor. Clara adored romance and, after a time, she grew tired of Fleming's conversation. He would talk of books. He would discuss science with her when Clara longed to have him make love. Gradually she saw less and less of the director and the engagement which started as a publicity story ended.

As her romance with Gilbert Roland died, a new love started with the boy who played a bit in "Wings." Clara had entirely forgotten about him. He was just another admirer and they were legion. She was given the script of "Children of Divorce" to read and told to be on the set the following Tuesday.

Watching her with eyes that gleamed, was a tall, lanky youth.

"Miss Bow," said Frank Lloyd, her director, "I want you to meet Gary Cooper, your leading man."

Clara Bow and Gary Cooper fall in love desperately. The outcome of this romance is revealed in tomorrow's installment of Miss Parsons' thrilling story of the "It" girl tomorrow.

A Nice Shady Spot
Your home can be a nice shady spot this summer if you order awnings now. Let us estimate the cost of new awnings for your home . . . you'll be surprised how inexpensive they will be. Fourth Floor.

The Public Grows More Critical of Values

Low prices, of themselves, no longer attract. Since the increased buying power of the dollar has been generally established, people are now seeking price plus. Wise shoppers are turning the lower prices to good account to have the things they want, in the qualities they prefer...all of which, as you may imagine, is exceedingly helpful to business at this best place to shop.

Tomorrow Afternoon at 2:30 O'Clock

Mlle. Manka Rubinstein

BEAUTY EXPERT GIVES ADVICE

American women, like their husbands, hurry too much and do not take sufficient time to eat, sleep or relax, according to Madeleine Darling, beauty specialist and personal representative of De Mar, of Paris. If American women would be beautiful they should take time to relax and sleep, soundly, the beautician, who is appearing this week at Gimbel's, declared. She said:

"The easiest way to relax is to sit down with your feet flat on the floor. Close your eyes and try to picture sand flowing through your body. It will help if you think of yourself as an hour glass. First think of the sand flowing through your brain, then your eyes, your nose, your mouth, and so on, down through your body until it has reached your toes. By that time you will feel that you are more rested and at the same time more vitally alive than if you had taken a few minutes to sleep."

BONDED LIQUOR, STILL SEIZED

Five hundred and fifty-two quarts of bonded whisky were confiscated by prohibition agents last night in the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie freight station, the agents said.

The liquor was packed in paper cartons. Agents were endeavoring to learn the identity of the owner of the contraband.

The agents also reported finding a whisky cutting plant at 472 Pearl street, where John Post was arrested, they said. Confiscation of 40 gallons of alcohol, 90 gallons of moonshine and a bag of whisky barrel chips, was reported in the place.

We All Can't be Satisfied It Isn't Human Nature

This reminds us of the fact that lots of folks are not satisfied with their present living quarters. Some want to move into new houses, some want to move into a different apartment, and still others want to eat somebody else's cooking for awhile. While these folks are thinking about moving, others are thinking of buying or selling something, trading this or that and lots of other wants too numerous to mention.

How can you reach these people? There is only one answer. Through the classified columns of The Sun-Telegraph, which takes your message into more homes than any other daily paper published in Pittsburgh.

Call Grant 5400 and ask for an ad taker. These young ladies, trained in the art of writing result-producing copy, will assist you in the preparation of your ad.

SPAN APPROACH HELD SAFE

Motorists, who may have been apprehensive because of the repair work now underway on the city approach to Woods Run Bridge on the Ohio River boulevard, need not fear that the bridge will slide away, according to Chief Engineer E. L. Schmidt, of the County Bureau of Roads.

Schmidt said yesterday six curb stones, three on either side of the approach, have settled about an inch and a half during the past four months and are being jacked into place. He explained this is a common occurence with curbs on the approaches to bridges, because of the inability to use heavy mechanical rollers to pack the fill at the edge of the roadbed on an abutment.

There is no danger of the roadbed sinking, Schmidt said, because it is built on a re-enforced concrete base.

By Mark Hellinger

Unsung New Yorkers—No. 75.

Just a little episode in a Broadway cabaret. Where the laughs are frequently phoney—and the phonies are frequently laughs . . .

* * *

IT WAS ABOUT one o'clock in the morning when I stepped into the joint. The headwaiter greeted me cordially.

"Glad you came in, Mark," he said. "Lucky for you, too. Great piece of material here tonight. Right up your alley. You know who walked in no less than 10 minutes ago? The Joy Boy."

The Joy Boy? I didn't get it for a moment. The Joy Boy? Familiar name all right. But where . . . ? Oh, sure! The memory hit me suddenly.

He hadn't been around in more than three years. His splurge had been short, but it had been high while it lasted. One of those men, you know, who pop up in night life every so often. One of those birds who toss away the thousands as though they were so many pennies.

That Joy Boy nickname was his own idea. He wasn't a boy at all. About 50, I should say. When he'd reach his second bottle of wine, he'd invariably rise to his feet.

"Hooray," he would shout. "Have a drink on the Joy Boy."

So the Joy Boy he remained as long as the money held out. Then, like all the rest, he disappeared.

So now he had come back again, had he? With a new bankroll.

"He's a bum, now," said the head waiter. "Grab a look at him."

I did. What the head waiter's description had lacked in flowery language, it made up for in authenticity.

"So that's how he wound up," I mused.

"What did the Joy Boy have to say?" I asked.

The proprietor shook his head. "Funny how that happened, Mark," he returned. "I was standing at the door when he popped in. I didn't recognize him at first. He looks like a tramp.

"'Joe,' he says to me, 'I don't want any charity. I used to be a pretty good customer of yours and I'm just wondering if you'd do me a favor?'

"'Sure,' I tell him.

"'Joe,' he says, 'I want to go back to the old days for a few hours. I want to buy a drink. I want to have a girl sit with me. I want to make believe I am back where I was three years ago. Will you lend me $20 to spend in your own place?'

"You know, Mark, what a man he used to be. I can't help what he looks like now; I just couldn't turn him down.

I said it certainly was . . .

For almost two hours the Joy Boy sat at the table. For almost two hours I sat at another table.

The proprietor had sent a girl to sit with this strange customer. She was very blonde and just as dizzy.

"I've ordered a pint of Scotch for us," I heard the Joy Boy say. "I wish I could afford to buy you wine. I would like to."

Soon the waiter slipped him the pint. They both drank. I looked at the Joy Boy as he raised his glass. His eyes held a peculiar look. Like Harry K. Thaw when he's drinking.

An hour passed. The pint vanished. The Joy Boy was talking a great deal now. The girl was flirting with a man at a ringside table.

"I'd like to buy some more liquor. But I can't afford it.

"Maybe you don't remember me. I was the Joy Boy. I had a lot of money—a lot of it. But my family took it all away. They said I was spending too much. They locked me up in one room for a long time. Then they let me out. They said I was spending too much money. So they took it all away."

"Sure," murmured the girl.

She left him and joined the man at the other table. She never did go back. Another half-hour dragged away. Suddenly the Joy Boy stood up.

"Hooray!" he cried. "Everybody having a good time? Have a drink on me—the Joy Boy! That's me, pals. The Joy Boy!"

"Be quiet, you fool," he shouted angrily. "Where do you think you are?"

The Joy Boy sank back into his seat.

"Sorry," he said. "I don't mean to be a nuisance. Got a little bit excited. Sorry. Can I have my check, please?"

The headwaiter strolled haughtily away. . . .

The waiter arrived with the check. The Joy Boy glanced at it and pulled that one $20 bill from his pocket.

"If you will give me two quarters," he said, "you need not bring me any change. There will be about $4 over. Please keep half for yourself and give the rest to the little girl who was sitting with me. She was very nice to me."

He arose. He walked to the door. He looked around. The proprietor was gone. He walked past the cloakrom. He took one of the quarters from his pocket. He handed it to the girl.

"I didn't bring my coat tonight," he said. "It was too warm. But I don't want to cheat you."

Up the stairs he went. I followed him. It was chilly outside. Almost cold. The doorman looked at him—and winked at me.

"Taxi, mister?" he asked.

The Joy Boy shook his head. Slowly, almost reluctantly, he drew forth the other quarter and put it in the doorman's hand.

"No," he murmured. "Not tonight. It's too nice for taxis. I think I'll walk."

POLICE CLEARED OF WRECKING

Any suspicion that it was Capt. John Schnurr's raiding squad which wrecked the furniture of Charles Pollard's place at 1520 Clark street was dispelled in Center Avenue Police Court today when four Negroes admitted they were the wreckers.

They placed the blame on each other, but admitted they were guilty—an admission which clears the police, who had been accused of another wrecking raid.

The Negroes admitted ransacking the place after the raid, smashing an electrical nickel-in-the-slot piano and a trunk.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg sentenced them to 60 days in the workhouse. He contributed the information that the nickel pianos were a new racket on the Hill, operated by Tony Siano.

Pollard, Negro, was fined $100 after the raid, when police produced moonshine and cards they said they seized.

Health Society Head Honored at Banquet

John F. Haller, president of the Health Promotion Society of Pittsburgh, was honor guest at a banquet last night held by the society in Reymer's tearoom in the Clark Building. The principal speaker was Ralph E. Sunderland, of Toledo. Dr. W. J. Van Essen, vice president, and John T. Flood, secretary, of the Pittsburgh Health Club, were also guests of honor. Charles F. Meyer was in charge of the executive committee.

BURGLARS GET $300 LOOT

Jewelry valued at $150 and $150 in cash were stolen from the home of August Galluze, at 3347 Dawson street, Oakland, last night. Investigating noises on the first floor, Galuze ran downstairs and saw two men leaving by the back door. Entrance was gained by jimmying a rear window.

Thieves who gained entrance through a rear window, took clothing from the residence of H. C. Reppert at 3409 Delaware avenue, according to a police report.

Joseph Fedon, of 136 Freeland street, reported to detectives that a thief entered his home and took a purse containing $14.

Officers attached to the Center Avenue Station scout car today reported capturing Walter Dentley, 16, and his brother, Elijah, 14, Negroes, of 106 Watt street, in a poolroom at 2406 Wylie avenue, shortly after they had forced a rear door to gain entrance. There was no evidence that anything had been stolen, police said.

2,000 SHRINERS TO MAKE TRIP

The meeting marks the fifty-seventh session of the Imperial Council. The new Cleveland municipal stadium and the public auditorium will be the scenes of the ceremonials.

Arrangements for the pilgrimage of local Shriners are being completed by Illustrious Potentate Thomas M. Heard, Jr., and Henry J. Yute, general chairman. A number of members will go by airplane.

KERR BOND PLAN OVERRULED

A plan of City Controller James P. Kerr to sell funding bonds totaling $2,355,000 for 30 years at 3¾ per cent interest, was changed yesterday by Council.

His ordinance was ordered amended to provide for a 20-year term at the same rate of interest. Chairman W. Y. English, of Council's finance committee, said the city would save money by accepting a shorter term.

The bonds are to fund existing unfunded indebtedness of the city, consisting of damage claims on street improvements. Council told Kerr to prepare a clearer ordinance on his request to cancel bonds totaling $216,000, authorized in 1910.

PLAIN AND GIRLISH FROCK IDEAL FOR THE DEBUTANTE

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, May 27.—Mark up a new success for marquisette. This material is being used this summer for both day and evening wear. It is a light, pleasing fabric, ideal for dance frocks, especially for those models created for the debutante and her younger sister. This season has seen a revival of the evening frock that stresses simplicity and girlishness, the ideal frock for the young girl who is wise enough to wish to emphasize her youth rather than smother it. The so-called sophisticated frock often does its utmost to appear simple if not girlish and so surely the frocks meant to be worn by the young girl should be content to be smartly unassuming. The girl with a sweet, rounded, fresh complexioned face does not need to wear a dress with a waist-deep back decolletage in order to arouse attention or admiration. All she needs to do is to wear a dress that is youthful and girlish in its appeal.

* * *

IT NOW SEEMS useless to plan for a life on the ocean waves without a raft of yachting pajamas. Nearly every house, even the most conservative establishments, are featuring several models in their summer collections. The pajamas shown here are from Philippe et Gaston. Navy blue flannel is combined with white wool jersey. The top of the ensemble is actually the bodice part of a white jersey bathing suit. This same jersey is used for the yoke of the blue flannel pajamas. Alternating tabs of white and blue edge the yoke and button on the top. The lower half of the pajamas is extremely wide.

* * *

THE CHARMING evening dress for the debutante is from Lucile. Biscuit colored marquisette with a delicate satin stripe is simply and modestly draped in a round-necked bodice, shirred vertically at the center front. The skirt is shirred closely over the hips and there is a wide horizontal band of the fabric set in midway between shirred yoke and hem.

A Good Slogan for 1932

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Politicians have speeded up on their 1932 program. They've got plenty of orders. But no production.

The trouble with the Democrats is strictly geographical. They make more noise agreeing than the guns did at Verdun.

The Alabama insurgents have discovered that in order to be a successful southern Democrat you've got to be born in New York City and live there.

The Republicans are finishing 12 years in the power plant. Now the Democrats want to furnish light and heat. Light for the investigations and heat for the investigated.

But the G. O. P. isn't worrying. All the Republicans have to do to dunk the gravy is to stop the Democrats from being Democrats.

Now, outside their intramural quarreling, the Democrats are an august body. A very august body. That's the trouble. Too much August and not enough November.

They got a peak load of 15,000,000 votes in 1928. It was the biggest jury that ever went out and came back with a Scotch verdict of not proven.

What the Democrats have lacked is cohesion and a good slogan. Something like eight hours work and eight hours sleep.

Or better still, an improvement on this battle chirp. Eight hours work, eight hours sleep and you can sleep at your work.

We give this slogan to the first party that claims it. We guarantee that it will swing the balance of power to the candidate and sweep him into office like a Missouri hen coop in a cloudburst.

Betty Compson Remains At Studio to Make Another Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, May 27.

Whatever vacation plans Betty Compson had will have to be changed, for she remains at RKO to play the lead opposite Ivan Lebedeff in "Strange Women."

Betty Compson

Despite the title, this is more of an adventure than a sex story, with the incidents supposedly build around Lebedeff's own life. Back in war-time, the Russian actor led a white army and later fell into the hands of the Bolsheviks.

Inasmuch as he handles a monocle as well as a sword, and does a neat bow over a pretty hand, there is plenty of room for love interest. Betty provides this, with the cool, assured Genevieve Tobin thrown in for good measure.

Richard Boleslavsky, who sounds as if he ought to know his Russians, will direct.

Incidentally Betty says that all reports to the contrary, her romance with Hugh Trevor is dead. They're good friends and may go out together occasionally, but that's all.

FIGURING CLOSE

LATEST GOSSIP

Things are not going smoothly between Robert Armstrong and his wife, who is known on the stage as Jean Kent. Bob is in Ensenada, and persistent reports are that Mrs. Armstrong may go to Reno. Only a short while ago, the couple returned from a three months tour of Europe. Life is arduous in the movies. A Paramount company went on location to a railroad spur where Gary Cooper was supposed to drive a locomotive. Running into unexpected fog, members of the troupe whiled away several hours by putting crossed nails on the track so Gary could drive over and smash them into scissors and rudely spelt names. . . . Herbert Brenon is the latest director to depart RKO. . . . Hollywood has a wedding supervisor. He is Orin Gardner, assistant to Dr. Neal Dodd, the movie chaplain. When a studio wants to get the details of a big church marriage, they put in a call for Orin. . . . Eddie Cantor has a new song, "Reno." It's by Con Conrad.

SALLY GETS BREAK!

Her bouyant Irish disposition undismayed by many disappointments, Sally O'Neill has kept at it until the breaks finally are coming her way again. Fox has signed her to replace Dorothy Jordan in "The Brat," which, of course, is Maude Fulton's old play. Sally's part is the one Miss Fulton acted on the stage. In the meanwhile, the Irish actress has to do "Murder by the Clock" at Paramount.

ARLEN PUT TO WORK

One way and another, those months Richard Arlen expected to loaf on his yacht have dwindled away completely. Now it is decided for him to play opposite Carole Lombard in Rupert Hughes' "No One Man." At one time Phillip Holmes was to have done this, but he has made three pictures in a row and the studio is allowing him a vacation. Having had a taste of rest in the early spring, Arlen will have to settle down now and make two pictures. The first is "The Secret Call."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With nothing to do except play "She Couldn't Say No" in the Alvin this week, the George Sharpers are having what they consider a soft time. Stock routine, you know, means rehearsing the future play while acting the current one. Since the present vehicle is the last of the season for our home company, there are no rehearsals, and the troupers and their alarm clocks are resting mornings. * * *

Small Timer, standing in the spotlight's glare, says that often when he is upstairs his wife calls him down, and that when he is inside she bawls him out.

* * *

They're telling a story about a movie magnate who paid a big price for an "original" story which, after it was filmed, proved to be a tale by Bulwer Lytton on which the copyright expired long ago, and which he could have had for nothing. Every thousand he paid was a "grand" testimonial to the cause of education.

* * *

Small Timer, made bolder by a titter or two in the audience, says that a man who is dubbed "a regular guy" seldom is a person of what is called regular habits. * * *

Arturo Toscanini's recent refusal to play the Facist patriotic composition on the ground that it was not "good music," is a reminder that Fritz Kreisler once had to give up concertizing in America because of partiotic fervor. That was in wartime, however, and Kreisler has since been welcomed here as an artist.

* * *

Small Timer, stealing a bow, says the Big Shot, as he is called in best racketeer circles, often is fired by a little powder—on a dame's cheek.

Helen Chandler In Ingenue Lead

One who works steadily even in these dull times is Helen Chandler, who played in "Outward Bound," "Dracula" and several other recent talkies. She goes to Radio Pictures now to play the ingenue lead in "Fanny Foley Herself." This is Edna May Oliver's first starring picture. Incidentally, Caray Wilson, who wrote the story, is doing an original gigolo plot for Ricardo Cortez.

Hears Guns

Jean Harlow hears the bark of gangster guns in "Public Enemy," which will have its premiere in the Davis and Enright tomorrow night.

Fulton Opening Occurs Thursday

"The Lawyer's Secret," Paramount talking screen drama, will open in the Fulton Theater tomorrow, instead of Friday, the Sixth street house's regular opening day. "The Lawyer's Secret" marks the introduction of Charles Rogers to dramatic roles, following a long period of juvenile leads. Others in the cast are Clive Brook, Richard Arlen, Fay Wray, Jean Arthur and Francis McDonald.

Exile

You were at home when I went by last night;
I saw your shadow etched against the shade.
I paused a bit and there against the light
A taller form another shadow made.

All suddenly your lure came back again,
And I recalled the faded ecstasy
When I was ruler of your gay domain,
And you—a very faithful Queen to me.

Those times have vanished lightly as a ghost,
For other lips are pressed against your own;
And I am but a memory at most—

—Young Man of Manhattan.

Capsule Criticism

It happened in one of the second-rate vaudeville houses in the Brox the other night. A hammy mammy singer who was flopping all over the place kept forcing his encores. The indifference of the audience rolled off his knife.

He came back for a forced third encore.

"And so, my good people," he beamed, "what would you like me to do for you now?

"Why not be a good little boy," yelled a gallerite, "and lie down for four or five days?"

The Gesture Sarcastic

One who used to appear in Winthrop Ames' plays says that Mr. Ames' during rehearsals, always places a chair in the center of the stage—so that actors can't hog it.

Why Actresses Gray Young

"In conclusion, I may add," writes the drama defender for Judge, "that, though I have seen innumerable Camilles, as I've said, I never knew until I saw Miss Le Gallienne's that what Camille died of was catarrh."

For Actors and Managers

Take it from James Huneker, who was one of the better dramatic critics. He reminded his subscribers that all criticism is personal, and neither academic nor impressionistic criticism should be taken seriously. Anatole France, said Huneker, has proved that one may be wise and witty while sailing his soul in quest of masterpieces.

The main point is—particularly in dramatic criticism—whether the writer holds our attention. Otherwise his work has no excuse for existence.

The Pun Makers

"Whad'ye think of the Red Menace?"

"I've seen some of them eat and their table menace are terrible!"

Sounds Like Him

Another George Bernard Shaw anecdote reveals what a supersensitive and vindictive person he is. Once, they say, he sent a play to a London manager, who returned it with his regrets, adding:

"I'm sorry, but I'm afraid I cannot produce your play."

"That's fine," telegraphed Shaw. "I was afraid you would!"

Merciless Truth

Broadway would be a sweeter place to struggle on if only half the natives' hearts were as big as their heads.

Gag

Jim Devoe, the impresario, is credited with this authenticated tale said to have actually happened back stage at the Metropolitan Opera House.

A heavy Bohemian tenor had the title role in Lohengrin. In that opera, you probably recall, Lohengrin has to enter in a boat drawn by a swan to effect the rescue of Elsa. The tenor was standing in the wings ready to be taken for a ride. But someone distracted his attention as the entrance music was struck, and the tenor missed his cue.

But not so the swan. It glided majestically out on to the stage without its passenger. The tenor, however, refused to be humiliated. He bowed gravely to a stage hand, and in his best Wagnerian manner chirped:

"I begya pahdin, but can you tell me when the next swan is leaving?"

Goodness!

Take it from the Detroit Athletic Club magazine, a friend of Dorothy Parker was scheduled to make a business trip to Grand Rapids. Miss Parker suddered all over.

"You don't want to go to Grand Rapids," she said.

"Why not?" he queried.

"Oh," almost wept Dorothy, "you mustn't go to Grand Rapids, away out there among all those chairs and sofas!"

A New Wrinkle?

In the 70s and 80s a little circuit of apartments has been fitted up for private parties. Ladies and gentlemen, as they prefer being called, who wish to do their entertaining in a wholehearted way with wine, women and sincopation, and still be sotto voce about it, may charter the use of one of these flats at any time between definite hours.

Service is provided, as are music, liquor and food. You sign a bond with the landlord after you've come well recommended, and the place is yours to do as you like.

There is no danger that your neighbor will complain about the noise, if any, for your enighbor has also paid his money for action—and is getting it.

Overheard

"You always avoid that guy, why don't you like him?"

Speaking of Stocks

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the Simile Dictionary: Motion Picture Herald: About the same drawing power at the box-office that a smallpox sign would have . . . Sydney Munden: About as important as a new bullet in "Legs" Diamond . . . Judge: Brief as a strip poker game between Gandhi and a chorus girl . . . Roy Halle's: She disappeared like a paid co-respondent—He was grabbed up like a lead in a broker's mail—She was as old as a new gag.

Heriditary

Fred Allen is weary, he says, of complaining about idea and gag pirates who theft his brain-children. Thus, when a friend told Allen about a vaudeville headliner who had cribbed much of his stuff, Fred softly replied:

"I know he is a thief, but I can't blame him."

"Good heavens, why not?"

"I found out," snarled Allen, "that his father was a columnist and his mother once drew cartoons!"

'Laughing Sinners' New Crawford Film

"Laughing Sinners" will be the final title of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's newly completed picturization of Kenyon Nicholson's play, "Torch Song," which formerly bore the same title as the stage production. This is a Joan Crawford starring vehicle, directed by Harry Beaumont, with a supporting cast that includes Neil Hamilton, Clark Gable, Marjorie Rambeau, Cliff Edwards and George Marion.

St. Anthony's Deeds Basis for Sermon

A series of sermons will be preached by Father Lucian, noted speaker of the Passionist Order, on the life and miracles of St. Anthony at a novena to the saint to be held from June 2 to June 23 at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Fernando street.

Youthful

Frances Dade puts the youthful romance into "The She Wolf," film starring May Robson, which comes to the Warner Saturday.

Marie Prevost Again With M-G-M Studio

Marie Prevost returns to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to support Helen Hayes in "Lullaby" and to play a character role in "Horseflesh." For six months, Marie was under contract to this studio, and then they let her go. She's worked pretty steadily, however, since her decision not to hold out for leads.

WELFARE FUND FALLS SHORT

Indications that money raised in the 1930 campaign for the Welfare Fund of Allegheny County will be insufficient for the needs of the fund this year were recognized today by the campaign committee headed by Joseph C. Dilworth in announcement of the annual fall campaign, November 9 to November 29.

The coming campaign will be for money to use in 1932 by the 39 agencies in the fund. No other appeal will be made for money, according to Dilworth. Last year, the drive was oversubscribed by $53,000. Dilworth says, but that amount and the contingent fund of $86,000 have been exhausted as the increase in need for relief.

The Welfare Fund faces a deficit in 1931, Dilworth admits, and may have to ask for funds to cover the deficit in their next drive.

Graham Urges $736,400 for Liberty School

THREE MORE TAKEN ILL WITH PARROT FEVER

ACT FOLLOWS WOMAN'S PROTEST

East Brookline, Concord Jobs Also Recommended For Board's Attention

Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, yesterday recommended that $736,400 be expended in remodeling and constructing an addition to the Liberty Elementary and Junior High School during 1932. The expenditure would be the largest on the $1,166,400 1932 building program of the Board of Education.

Graham told the board that the Liberty school, the new East Brookline elementary school and the Concord elementary school are the most in need of attention.

Completion of work on the proposed Liberty elementary junior high school would settle complaints of residents of the Seventh Ward that their district has been neglected. Mrs. Frank J. Bovle voiced these grievances in the Sun-Telegraph Monday.

On the East Brookline elementary school, Dr. Graham would have the board spend $200,000 for construction of a building to accommodate 400 pupils in eight classrooms, a modern kindergarten and one standard playroom. Work on this building, he proposed, should be started first.

Now overcrowded, the Concord elementary school would be enlarged under the Graham recommendations. Cost of construction is estimated at $200,000, cost of land at $30,000.

It is understood that the Graham recommendations will meet the approval of the Board of Education. Costs would be met by sale of $1,500,000 in school bonds, in keeping with that group's policy of keeping just within the legal bonding limit.

Thomas, 32, 1547 Wylie avenue; Robert Harris, 412 Logan street; Annie Stewart, 36, 1221 Wylie avenue, said by police to be writers for the lottery, are held on charges of violating a city ordinance.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

At a conference in London on what to do about the world's surplus wheat, it broke up, as usual. They even eat cornbread during the conference. Russia proposed export wheat on a quota basis. We wouldn't agree to it, so another conference breaks up with us being the "goat." Will we ever quit sending delegations off to conferences? We just wait for a conference to get in wrong with somebody. They should be a heavy export duty on "good will" groups and delegates to conferences. We have had so many conferences that we are even sore at each other here at home.

Yours, WILL.

CLAIM OF VET'S WIDOW UPHELD

Two jury awards in Federal Court were in favor of actions brought by World War veterans against the government to recover on war risk insurance policies, on the grounds of having become permanently disabled while in service. The cases were heard before Judge Nelson McVicar.

A verdict for $7,475 was given Carrie E. Wiemann, administratrix of the estate of Charles A. Wiemann. Wiemann, who served in the Navy, filed a suit to recover on his $10,000 policy on April 25, 1930, but died April 6, this year.

A verdict for $8,222.50 was given Charles A. McClelland, who served in the Army. The government contended the two men had not suffered permanent disability.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES MAY MERGE HERE

$500,000 Building to Result If Assembly Approves Consolidation Proposal

Three Presbyterian churches, one downtown, the others on the North Side, will be merged during the summer if plans made by their authorities are carried out. The present buildings would be abandoned and a new edifice of the cathedral type, to cost more than $500,000, would be erected on the North Side.

The churches involved in the proposed merger, plans for which will be presented to the Presbyterian General Assembly, opening here tomorrow, are the Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street; the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor; the First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny, Arch and Diamond streets, the Rev. F. J. Bryson, pastor, and the Central Presbyterian Church, 722 Sandusky street, North Side. The union would result in a congregation of almost 2,000.

The merger, if approved by the Presbyterian Assembly, will take place immediately and services will be held in the North Side Carnegie Library until the new structure is completed. The plans are in the possession of Dr. Shelton, who said yesterday:

"The plans are not completed and no official action has been taken. The congregations have not as yet voted on the proposition."

Lack of growth, and in some instances, membership decline was said to be the reason for the proposed merger of the three churches, all of which have significant historical backgrounds.

DOCTORS HERE FIND DISEASE CONTAGIOUS

First in United States to Hint That Psittacosis May be Spread by Human Contact

With the diagnosis of the illness of three persons in Reserve Township as psittacosis, commonly known as parrot fever, Director Charles B. Maits, of the Department of Public Health, today announced that he had directed Dr. Philip E. Marks, of his staff, to make a thorough study of the previous deaths of persons associated with the three sufferers.

Dr. Joseph F. Thoms, of the North Side, yesterday diagnosed the cases of Frank Wiegand, his mother, Mrs. Margaretta Wiegand, and daughter, Marie, of 1966 West Beckert avenue, as parrot fever. The North Side physician telephoned yesterday to Dr. Marks and told him of his diagnosis.

BELIEVED CONTAGIOUS

When informed of the decision of Dr. Thoms, the attending physician, Dr. Marks said:

"His word is as good as the the next man. The previous deaths were doubtful, and while we were not certain, we made every effort to prevent contagion. If it is true that the Wiegand family is suffering from psittacosis, it decides for us something which Washington physicians did not believe. That is, that the disease can be spread by personal contact."

The three who are ill are members of the same family in which three deaths occurred recently. The deaths were believed to be caused by parrot fever, but due to the lack of convincing evidence, were listed as pneumonia.

NURSE VICTIM

Miss Josephine Wilson, a public health nurse, who attended one of the victims during the illness, died May 11 in the Allegheny General Hospital. Her death also was said to be due to pneumonia. Dr. Marks said that it would be impossible to determine definitely whether any of the previous deaths had resulted from parrot fever, but if the three members of the Wiegand family are suffering from parrot fever, there can be little doubt but that all were from the same cause.

Dr. Maits declared that there have been a dozen deaths in this district which might have been caused from parrot fever. The deaths in the Wiegand family were Frank's wife, Anna, her father, Joseph J. Lindner, and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lindner, of 836 Lovett way, North Side.

FATHER, DAUGHTER DIE

On April 12, a parrot owned by Mrs. Wiegand's brother, Harry Lindner, died. Harry Lindner soon became ill and Mrs. Wiegand went to care for him. Her father then contracted the disease, and her husband went to help her. Both of them were taken sick. The elder Lindner and Mrs. Wiegand died within two hours of each other, but the younger men recovered. Yesterday Mrs. Elizabeth Lindner died.

Although the three cases of illness are outside the city, Dr. Maits sent a physician from the bureau of infectious diseases to the home. The physician will give advice as to how best to prevent contagion and to obtain any possible information that might help health authorities acquaint themselves with the malady so that they can better cope with it.

In spite of Dr. Thoms' diagnosis and the statement of Dr. Maits, Dr. W. H. Gardner, of the North Side, who attended Mrs. Elizabeth Lindner, today declared that there was no case of parrot fever as far as Mrs. Lindner was concerned. He said:

"It was a plain case of bronchial pneumonia and there was no sign of parrot fever."

Council Session Delayed to Tuesday

Prospective absence of several members from the city over the week-end has resulted in postponement of Council's regular meeting Monday until Tuesday.

Committees that meet Tuesday will sit Wednesday, and hearings will be held Thursday.

Beauty Tells Inside Story of Pageant and How She Met Mate

By CHARLOTTE NASH NIXON-NIRDLINGER

The inside story of the Atlantic City beauty contests—with their pitfalls and opportunities—as set forth today by Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, acquitted in Nice, France, of the murder of her husband, wealthy Philadelphia theater magnate.

This is the third installment of her account of the dramatic career. She tells how her future husband fell secretly in love with her, became a judge in the beauty contest and finally met her. It reveals the flowering of all her dreams, as yet free of the threat of impending tragedy.

NICE.

Although I had learned since that Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger was keeping a rather wary eye on me during the Atlantic City beauty contest, I was not aware of it at the time. Some of the other girls whispered to me about "a millionaire theater man" being stuck on me. But you couldn't take this seriously. I assumed there was too much jealousy among the other girls to allow them to admit I was receiving more flattering attention than they. I decided they were just trying to give me the run-around.

Besides, I couldn't understand why this "Philadelphia millionaire" didn't make my acquaintance. Say what you like, a millionaire approaching middle age and a man of world-wide experience isn't a blushing Romeo. He may be a Romeo, but he doesn't blush. Indeed, from what I saw at the time it struck me that the men of middle age, regardless of how homely they might be, seemed a great deal more confident in approaching the beauty contestants than the young men.

Well Treated

Meanwhile, there was nothing to complain about in the treatment we received in Atlantic City. I have heard many reports that things were not the way they should be at these contests, but I had no unpleasant experiences myself. The whole affair, the year I was there, was directed in a most orderly, clean, nice way. In fact many of the friends I made there at the time are still sticking to me now—for which I am heartily grateful.

At the same time there were reports of politics being played by the managers of some of the girls and even talk of bribery. Of course, I can now appreciate how the authorities and business men of the city felt about it in 1928, when they decided to abolish the beauty contests. As I recall, they resented Atlantic City being advertised as another sort of Coney Island, a "hot-dog" resort. It was claimed that the contests brought crowds of "tin-can tourists," who came to gape but not to pay money to the big Boardwalk hotels.

Well, it is true they came to gape, but what is beauty for if not to gape at and admire? And it seems to me that the big hotel proprietors must suddenly have acquired intelligence, because in the year the contests were abolished one of their spokesmen explained "any such event as the pageant must naturally appeal to a lower order of intelligence."

Fourth in Finals

However, as I say, I had nothing to complain about. I won the roller chair event and was placed fourth in the finals.

Meanwhile, I did not know that my secret admirer was pulling all sorts of wires in my behalf. It wasn't until later that I learned Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger was talking about me incessantly. He even confided to friends that at last he had met the ideal woman, for whom he had been searching all his life.

I can really believe he meant that, for during our married life he was forever dinning it into my ears. But it wasn't until in later years I was to realize that "the ideal woman" he had in mind was

1,000 REALTORS OPEN MEETING AT BALTIMORE

Pittsburgh's Delegation One of Largest Attending: Hold Important Posts

BALTIMORE, May 27.—With an address of welcome to more than 1,000 realtors, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, officially opened the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards here this morning in the Lord Baltimore Hotel.

The response to Gov. Ritchie's welcome was made by Harry S. Kissell, president of the national association. Following Kissell's response, Dr. John Gries, secretary of the White House Conference on Home Ownership and Home Building, outlined the work accomplished by the conference in creating a large market for moderate priced homes.

The Pittsburgh delegation, headed by Roy R. Cappe, president of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, and numbering approximately 60 realtors, is one of the largest delegations here for the convention. Because of its numbers and the prominent part several of its members play in the affairs of the national association, the Pittsburgh group is expected to figure heavily in the business meetings, discussions tomorrow and the election on Friday.

Among the Pittsburgh realtors who are active in the national association are President Cappe, L. T. Stevenson, president of Stevenson-Williams Company; J. W. Cree, Jr., president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association; Robert W. Semenow, director of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Brokers' License Law; C. C. C. Stotler, secretary-treasurer of The Title Guaranty Company, and J. Roland Brady, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh board.

ENGLISH HINTS CITY TAX CUT NEXT YEAR

Councilman Declares Mayor Wants Municipal Budget Requests to Be Held Down

Indications that the city tax levy would be reduced in 1932 and that pressure would be used on all department heads to pare their requests to the bone, were given in Council yesterday by W. Y. English, chairman of the finance committee.

Discussing the general financial situation, English said:

"We want to start consideration of the budget as early as possible. It is usually the custom of department heads to start preparations of their budget needs in June. I had a talk with the Mayor some time ago with the idea of holding down requests, which is his personal desire.

"We are determined to cut the tax levy. If we don't get co-operation, then we will have to act arbitrarily."

English made the statement when Public Safety Director James M. Clark asked $2,600 for a motorboat to be used by the Bureau of Police. Council granted the request.

Present tax millage is 25 on land and 12¾ on buildings.

KEEP KISSABLE

. . . WITH OLD GOLDS

OLD GOLDS were created to give you THROAT-EASE . . . as well as a more delightful tasting cigarette. But the makers also considered your breath, your lips, your teeth, as well as your THROAT.

They created a pure-tobacco cigarette . . . free of coriander and other greasy artificial flavorings* that burn into clinging, staining, breath-tainting vapors.

To avoid unpleasant aftermaths, smoke pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS. Their clean, sun-ripened, natural-flavored tobaccos will be like honey to your THROAT. And they leave no objectionable odors either on your breath or clothing, or in the room.

HERE'S THE PROOF *

Open up a pack of OLD GOLDS and smell the tobacco. Do the same with any other cigarette. Judge for yourself which has the natural, pleasant, all-tobacco aroma. It's a favor to your family and friends, as well as to yourself, to smoke NATURAL-FLAVORED, pure-tobacco OLD GOLDS.

COAL CONCERNS AID REMOVAL OF ASHES

Six Companies Will Lend Trucks in Campaign to Dispose of Accumulations

Six of the leading coal companies of Pittsburgh have agreed to donate one truck each for one week to remove accumulations of ashes which have been worrying city officials since the close of the spring cleanup campaigns.

Civic organizations in their efforts to brighten up the city recently spread the word that all rubbish would be hauled away free. This was interpreted to mean ashes and quantities of them were hauled out of dark cellars and placed on display where collectors would be sure to find them.

A truck shortage developed and it was only with difficulty that the rubbish was removed. The ashes remained, and as the city has no contract with the American Reduction Company for the removal of ashes, there was every indication they would continue to remain.

John Ihlder, executive director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, took the problem to R. W. Kiser, president of the Pittsburgh Retail Coal Dealers' Association. It was referred to the coal men yesterday at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

T. L. Pillow, superintendent of the City Bureau of Highways and Sewers, has arranged for a dump at Charles street for the ashes.

Coal companies furnishing the trucks are the Junction Coal Company, the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the East Liberty Coal and Coke Company, the Alexander Black Coal Company, the McCready-Rodgers Company and the Woods Run Coal and Supply Company.

DOPE EXHIBITS USED IN TRIAL

Defense testimony was to begin today for Yee King Lai, national president of the On Leong Tong Association, and nine other Chinese, on trial before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, on charges of violating government narcotic laws.

When the government closed its case late yesterday, one courtroom had the appearance of a junk shop. Tables were stacked with 70 exhibits placed in evidence. There were lamps for cooking, smoking opium, pipes, "toy" cans of opium and other articles, narcotic agents testified to having seized November 19 in raids at 515 Third avenue and 522 Third avenue.

After the government closed, Judge Schoonmaker granted a motion by defense counsel for binding instruction for acquittal as to Loo Kim, because of insufficient evidence. The court denied similar motions as to Lai and some of the other defendants.

The LOUDSPEAKER—By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, May 26.—More concentrated talk on the future of radio has probably been aired during the past week than in all the years since the news of Harding's election flashed through the ether.

Radio chiefs voiced their opinions, scientists talked across the continent, bigwigs of the educational, political and musical worlds spoke their pieces in order that culture, so far as it applies to the air channels, may be spelled with a capital C.

Frankness was the order of the day, a fine invigorating, foglifting frankness. Weasel words which had done service lo these many years were put away upon dusty shelves along with year-before-last's ideas. The result was that a good deal of misinformation and misunderstanding concerning various phases of what the boys call the radio set-up were swept away. And the broadcasting world now knows where it stands.

* * *

Particularly does it know where it stands in respect to education. It has learned—and let that be a lesson to you, dear herr professors—that the cooperation of educators is badly needed if culture is really to be spelled on the American air with that capital C. It remained for Henry A. Bellows to tell them. And, Mons. Bellows told them plenty.

* * *

When he got through we learned that the gentry who do most of the fault-finding and ridiculing of broadcasts are those—mostly from the upper walks of life—who are least ready with a helping hand. Yes, sir, Bellows told them right out in meeting, told how the medical profession, for example, complains of the exploitation of the radio audience by quacks. And then he asks pertinently:

"What has the American Medical Association done towards the establishment of a nationwide radio service in the interests of public health?"

Listen to him further:

"College professors bewail the low intellectual level of radio programs; how many colleges in America are ready with a systematic plan for the intelligent use of broadcasting in public education? Men and women of letters turn their noses even higher at the sight of a loudspeaker; how many of them give thought to the creation of a new form of literature for this amazing new medium of communication?"

And this vice president of the Columbia System also makes a confession—sweet to the ears. He said that the broadcasters' dream of Paradise is a world in which advertisers are content with mere credit announcements at the beginning and end of each program. Upon whom does he put the blame for blatant radio advertising? Upon no one but old John W. Public himself. The cure, he points out, rests with the public itself, that no advertiser is so foolish as knowingly to offend any considerable part of his audience.

Dr. Robert A. Millikan's talk on the past and future of radio was the most comprehensive yet given to the air. Like the majority of scientists, who, today, occupy the headlines, he first peeped into the future before going over familiar ground. His peep told him that radio must create a new type of speaking that is simple and understandable to all. The necessity for simple, understandable terms ought, he says, to improve American writing.

* * *

It is the first time that any man has given public expression on the air to the thought that radio's need for simple, understandable language should improve American writing. Yet where are the novelists of radio? There are none. Where are even the short story writers? There are none safe in isolated cases. Take away Gibbons and Coe and there is no one on the loudspeakers who has devoted any considerable time to the weaving of fiction.

SCAN REQUEST FOR SPAN FUND

County engineers have been asked by County Commissioners to submit a recommendation on a request from Director Edward G. Lang, of the City Department of Public Works, for payment of one-half the cost for improving streets in the vicinity of Sixteenth Street Bridge. The city proposed to pay the other half of the $8,000 estimated total.

Lang explained that in order to provide proper clearance between the bridge and the thoroughfares beneath the south approach, it would be necessary to reconstruct Sixteenth street from Pike street to Mulberry way and Mulberry way a short distance east and west of Sixteenth street.

Two performances will be given by models from Boggs & Buhl's store. The first will take place during the afternoon and the second at night, the models walking through the reception room and onto the veranda.

Kellogg's RICE KRISPIES

an outstanding General Motors value

To our list of Oakland owners this year have come many motorists who have driven other cars—some higher in price, some lower, and some costing about the same. Their comments:

Said a man who had paid more: "I'm getting the kind of performance I've always insisted on. I don't ask for anything smoother or quieter than this Oakland Eight. The motor does everything so easily. I find a feature I've enjoyed in my former cars—the Syncro-Mesh. It certainly simplifies gear-shifting. In addition, I wouldn't have believed a car at such a reasonable price could be so comfortable and well finished. No two ways about it—I'm proud of my Oakland—it's a good investment."

Said a man who formerly drove a cheap car: "Oakland gives me an entirely different kind of ride. For one thing, I feel as if a few dollars had smoothed away most of the bumps in the road!" (That comfort is due, partially, to deep springs, four hydraulic shock absorbers, soft seat cushions, and rubber insulation at 41 points in the chassis.) "But I suppose I'm even more pleased with Oakland's pick-up and speed. Talk about hills—this car doesn't ask for a running start. It walks right up, and that's what I call power!"

Said a man who had previously paid about the same price: "Oakland introduced me to motor car distinction that I thought was reserved for people with more money to spend. The Fisher body is a big advantage—seems so carefully built—sounds solid when you slam the doors, and shuts out heat and cold. The upholstery is my idea of real value, too. As for good looks, just ask my wife and daughter!"

Typical comments, these. We hear lots of them. But of course you have your own ideas of performance and comfort and appearance. So, drive the car—give it a thorough test. Just call any Oakland-Pontiac dealer.

One important step in reducing your cost of car ownership is the policy of equipping cars ready for the road. Prices you see advertised are the prices you actually pay, with no equipment or delivery charges to be added. Equipment includes front and rear bumpers, 4 hydraulic shock absorbers, 5 wire wheels, and extra tire, tube and tire lock. Wood wheels optional at no extra cost.

$984 DELIVERED EQUIPPED

delivered equipped in Pittsburgh for the 2-door Sedan or Coupe. Sport Coupe, $1064. 4-door Sedan or Convertible Coupe, $1084. Custom Sedan, $1144.

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Pat Haley, who once performed over WJAS for experience, is cashing in these days . . . two weeks at Pittsburgh theaters, a week's vacation and New York Ho! . . . we understand John S. Royal, of NBC, formerly manager of WTAM, has plum pudding for Pat . . . large oaks from little acorns grow . . . Pat has accepted a WCAE offer to play with "Riggs and Moke" this Friday night at 11 . . . Kreisler's charming "Caprice Viennois" has been rearranged for words under the title, "Cradle Song" . . . and Gladys Rice with string accompaniment introduces it over WEAF-WCAE at 8:30 tonight. . . . We look askance at any attempt to improve on the masters, but if the arranger has done "Caprice Viennois" as much justice as Frank Black did Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" in preparing it for quartet work, then we're for it.

STUDIO LIGHTS

In less than two years Dick Powell has spent $4,400 on autographed photos . . . 40,000 at 11 cents each . . . Martha Jane Lewis, accompanist for the West Virginia University Girls' Glee Club on WJAS tomorrow afternoon at 3, is a sister of Art Lewis, night operator at WJAS . . .

Lloyd C. Thomas and Ed Harvey will go down in Pittsburgh history as rare men . . . they're Democrats . . . John Fogarty, latest "find" of the NBC, is being groomed for the tenor role in a new six-days-a-week B. A. Rolfe Orchestra series . . . James Haupt, another NBC tenor, received his bachelor of arts degree at Thiel College, Greenville, Pa. . . . was song leader for the 30th Division Machine Gun Battalion oversea . . . and traveled Chautauqua with Edwin Whitney, NBC dramatist and Pittsburgh's own son . . .

Speaking of the Whitneys (they're all famous!), Cass Ward Whitney, KDKA baritone, spends much of his time doing concert work in other cities . . . Memorial Day he directs the Music Festival of Utah State College, Logan, Utah, and on June 7 sings the bass solo parts in the Verdi "Requiem" for Bucknell College . . .

Amos 'n' Andy are not planning a minstrel show right away, but they may do it for the radio eventually, they told us this morning at Hotel William Penn . . . In case they do, the boys will take all the parts, said Freeman Gosden (Amos) . . . when we rapped on the door of their suite. Gosden invited us in with an impersonation of Lightnin' . . . great boys!

Guess what! Bernie Armstrong and his sweetie, Dorothy Bushey, went to their first tee yesterday . . . tee for two, as it were . . . which reminds us, how about that interstation golf tournament?

When WWVA at Wheeling, W. Va., was inducted into the Columbia Broadcasting System last Saturday night, it was easy for the studio staff to visualize the production of Hank Simmons' "Show Boat," dedicated to them . . . WWVA studios, on the tenth floor of the Hawley Building, overlooks the beautiful Ohio River and West Virginia hills and fable has it that a big side wheel steamer, with lights glowing like a furnace, tramped the river last Saturday night as "Show Boat" was introduced . . . Studios of WWVA are among the prettiest in the country, ranking perhaps third or fourth in CBS, outside of New York and Chicago . . . WHK, at Cleveland, and our own WJAS are the leaders . . . John Strobel is no longer with the station, having left on March 16, but Glenn Boundy, genial operator, who once monitored WCAE programs, is still chief engineer.

Yes, that divorce angle is costing Graham McNamee some prestige . . . Kenneth Fickett whose voice is almost a "double" has been substituted by some sponsors . . . McNamee, you know, is practically a free agent with his own office and his own contracts, so apparently he is offering no resistance to those who want to give him up . . . but try to find another McNamee!

We went to the Cleveland-Chicago ball game with Tom Manning, sorrel top sport reporter at WFAM . . . he doesn't miss a thing! . . . and has about as many friends as Herbert Hoover . . . whatta boy . . . his voice simulates that of Raymond Knight . . .

The Oklahoma Cowboys, now at WLW, got the bounce at a Cincinnati hotel because Otto Gray's pet monkey, "Bambo," got capricious and meandered through the corridors, unscrewing electric light bulbs and banging them on the floor . . . the management's dignity was more than upset when investigation revealed that Otto also kept a pet skunk, "Martha," in his room . . . ride 'em cowboy!

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Youths Should Not Take Love Too Seriously

He pretends to be care-free 'n' hard-boiled.

But underneath he's all haywire.

And any pretty girl can make a fool of him.

So, lifes' just one Busted Bubble after another to Dave. Ever feel like that? Sure you have! Then come on—help me give the kid a hand.

"Dear Sally:

"Please don't decapitate the waste basket with this. I am coming to you because I need help and I hope you can give me some. I'll introduce myself, hiding and excusing nothing. I am a high school senior, 19 years old. I have been out of school two years, though, to work.

"Outwardly, I appear to be a care-free fellow, with a cheerful smile for everyone and a wisecrack for some. But under this disguise I am a very sentimental fool. I guess because after I go with a girl about three dates, providing she is a nice, respectable girl, and listen to her call me pet names, I fall in love with her.

"I am easy to get along with, usually, but I am jealous as the green-eyed one, when the girl tries to deceive me and go on a date with someone else.

Becomes Miserable

"When I do get a steady girl friend she goes crazy over me—at first—then, suddenly, she drops me like a wet fish.

"When I am this wet fish I smile and joke around with everybody, as if nothing had happened . . . that is, in the presence of others. But really, I am sad, very sad, and when I am alone, I think about her and then think about her some more . . . and I am very miserable.

"Please help me. I am not confiding in you because I want sympathy, but because I don't know what makes things like that and I want to overcome it all. What do you think is wrong? "DAVE."

What's wrong, Dave?

Not a thing! You're just growing up. And because you're new, and the world's new, and the girls are new, you're all at sixes and sevens.

Too Serious

So every time you see a pair of lucky ankles, or melting eyes . . . or hear a snappy line . . . you go off the deep end. You haven't learned to ride herd on yourself yet. Why do girls drop you like a wet fish?" That's why! . . . You scare 'em off by taking them (and yourself) too seriously.

That doesn't mean, son, that falling in love isn't serious. It is. It is the most serious thing that can come to any life. But you're not ready for love yet. . . . You haven't really learned what it is. And you've never actually been in love. You're just suffering from a long line of Crushes. Crushes that are really as fleeting and impermanent as spring mist. Sure they're painful. But that isn't because there's anything big or real about them . . . but because you've allowed your imagination to run away with you.

What'll you do about it? Get a grip on yourself. Stop trying to make a Heavy Sweetie out of every girl you meet. Stop insisting on "going steady" when you see some girl who catches your fancy. Learn to be friends with girls. Casual, companionable, pleasant friends . . . with many girls. And realize that they have a perfect right to be friends with other boys . . . and then you'll have their liking . . . and eventually the love of the one right girl . . . when you're old enough and man enough to know what real love is.

Best Antidote for Boredom Is to Cultivate Some Hobby, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Everyone should have some hobby he can turn to as a relaxation from the regular routine of work.

Collecting something or other can give no end of pleasure and be carried on according to one's means.

The wealthy who go in for rare objects of art can be no more enthused and happy than we of little means who browse for inexpensive prints and old books.

It is not the cost but the appreciation of a thing that makes it "priceless."

The best antidote for boredom, and weariness of mind, is to cultivate some hobby or enthusiasm of your own which does not depend upon others to keep it interesting and a joy to yourself.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Edith Fairfax Saves Day.

There was so much suppressed anger in Philip Veritzen's voice as, under cover of the laughter he asked me if Dicky had fallen and broken the gift on purpose that I felt the sudden tense alarm which comes when one senses the danger of a scene. I knew that Dicky had been on the brink of an explosion all the evening, but I guessed that he had found his "emotional escape" in the breaking of the lovely container of roses. But Philip Veritzen's wrath was still in the process of ferment, and I knew that something must be done quickly if I did not want our Christmas Eve spoiled.

"Yes, we think the platform in the alcove here makes a splendid little theater at practically negligible cost," I said as if he had been commenting upon the platform. "Won't you give me your professional opinion on it?"

He walked with me to the platform, and I indicated the curtains made from old draperies which Mrs. Tiger had just laid down upon it, preparatory to their hanging.

"You see, we have a curtain n' everything," I said lightly, but he did not smile.

"Very interesting," he commented, "and a little later I want to talk to you about it. But just now I should like very much to have you answer my question."

"I am not evading it," I said, "but of course you must realize how impossible it would be for me to answer it with Dicky within hearing."

"He cannot possibly hear you now."

"I know, and I shall answer you to the best of my ability."

I took a long breath, commended myself to Ananias, Sapphira and the rest of the family, and uttered what Lillian would call "a whale."

"I am sure he did not fall on purpose," I said. "I ought to be angry at you for even suggesting such a thing. But I can understand your annoyance at having so exquisite a thing broken. I am desolated myself."

"Did you really care for it so much?" he said softly, and with a thrill of triumph, I saw that if I had not convinced him of the accidental nature of Dicky's fall, I had diverted his attention from it. But a side glance at Dicky at the same moment that he looked toward me showed me that the danger of an encounter between the two men was not yet over. I must walk warily, I told myself in a panic.

"Could anyone fail to prize so lovely a thing?" I parried.

"That was not my question," he persisted, and I wondered if he knew that Dicky was watching us while appearing to be engaged in setting up the pool tables.

With a feeling of disgust at the subterfuge, yet feeling that anything was justified in the prevention of a scene, I picked up the curtain and held it in such a fashion as to give the impression that I was showing the fabric to my employer.

"Yes, I liked it much," I said, truthfully. "But there's no use regretting it, now. I hate to think of unpleasant things, don't you? What do you think of this for a drop curtain."

"You're determined to dodge, aren't you?" he said. "All right, for the present, but—I warn you—I am not a patient man. As for the curtain, frankly, I don't like makeshifts, and that of course is what this is. Won't you give me a great pleasure and let me fit this alcove platform up as a miniature stage for your boy with a real drop curtain and wings and scenery?"

The pealing of the telephone was an interruption most grateful to me. Two years ago, when he was sorting endless boxes of papers in the basement, my father had an extension telephone put in and it never had been removed. It was nearest to me, and thankful for the chance to delay a decision upon Mr. Veritzen's embarrassing offer, I went to it and took down the receiver.

"Hello! Hello!" came Katie's excited voice, and I had my work cut out for me to explain that I would attend to the call. But I was glad that my back was to the rest of the room, when Edith Fairfax's voice, sugary, friendly, came over the telephone.

"Lo, Madge. Merry Christmas to all of you uns from all of uns. I thought I'd call you now, instead of at midnight, for I knew you'd all be singing carols then. It's a trifle early, but I knew you wouldn't care."

"Indeed no, Ede," I assured her heartily, stressing her name so that everyone in the room might hear it. I felt vaguely that in some way this call might prove to be an offset for the rancor Dicky was holding against me because of the Veritzen roses. "Thank you so much for the Christmas wish. And please bid every one a Merry Christmas for me."

"I'll do that little thing," she answered, then hesitated — I guessed with a purpose.

"Is the Dicky-bird there?" she asked.

"Right here," I answered.

"Will you ask him, please, to toddle to the telephone? I want to thank him for the most gorgeous Christmas gift I ever had in my life."

Utilize the old whisk broom by keeping it in the broom closet and whenever the mop is used, whisk out the soil and "fuzzes" with the whisk broom. It will keep the mop in excellent condition.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

We Should Slow Down and Enjoy Longer Life.

Within the past decade, statistics show an increasing mortality rate in the United States for persons of the age of 40 and over. This is an unpleasant fact.

Dr. Copeland

To what can we attribute this increase?

There is no doubt it is due to negligence on the part of individuals. This negligence has persisted in spite of warnings in youthful years. Even though certain ailments have been known to exist, their victims have neglected to visit their doctors at regular times.

Our modern mode of living tends to decrease the average span of life rather than to increase it. Overeating of rich, spicy foods, and foods rich in protein, such as meat, fish, fowl and eggs, contribute greatly in chronic disorders of the body. In temperate quantities these foods are most desirable, but their overeating is a great mistake.

As a rule, most people indulge too little in exercise. The automobile has taken away what little exercise the average individual might practice. Telephones and other modern inventions have curtailed man's physical activity. He has become an efficient machine at a sacrifice to his body.

It has been said of the American people that they are over stimulated and excessively emotional. Continued emotional excitement, with prolonged mental strain, does more damage to the human mechanism than many infectious diseases.

Hard work to the point of extreme fatigue, interfering with normal sleep, does great damage to the body. Lack of proper food and ample relaxation are causes of many unnecessary ailments. Too much work with too little play has long been recognized as a hindrance to good health.

The need of taking occasional inventory of one's health is imperative. Once the body has been damaged, all that medical science can offer is to prevent its further damage.

It is possible, however, to prevent many serious disorders of the body. This can only be accomplished when the body is treated with respect and care.

We are endowed with all the means of enjoying full life and pleasure. This can be attained only by a carefully planned and regulated life. When this fact has been carefully impressed upon all people there will be an increase in the average span of life.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Keeping an Eye on the Kitchen

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am having a bridge which will include eight guests, or four couples, and, after playing, I am going to serve refreshments in the dining room, and that is where my problem lies, in seating them at the table. Now the usual procedure would be for my partner to sit directly opposite me at the other end of the table, would it not?

However, if I arrange them this way with three guests on each side of the table, one couple would be separated, and would have to sit across from each other, instead of side by side, and I would like to keep them together, if possible.

Will you kindly explain to me just how to seat my guests correctly, and whether or not my partner should sit opposite me?

2. Also please let me know if it matters whether I sit at the end of the table close to the kitchen or at the other end?

W.

1. I can't agree with your point of view that it is so important to seat the bridge partners next each other. Especially at such a small party, when it is usually true that the conversation becomes quite general. I'd keep in mind the general spirit of congeniality and hospitality rather than the too studied idea of keeping the bridge couples together at the table.

2. The hostess usually finds it more convenient to sit at the end of the table facing the kitchen or serving pantry.

They Should Find Plenty of Other Entertainment

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle this dispute for us. My daughter is 14 years old and attends quite a number of parties. Most all the games played are kissing games, and most of the girls she goes around with go out with boys. I think they are too young. We hope you will settle our dispute.

E. W.

I agree with you, whole-heartedly, on both counts. Couldn't you and some of the other children talk this over and plan other kinds of games for these parties?

Beauty Reveals Inside Story of Pageant and How Romance Began

one who should go nowhere, do nothing, look at no one, and think of nothing but her husband. An ideal wife is all very well providing she has her ideal husband! And the ideal husband, for one thing, shouldn't have, almost to the point of insanity, an "idealistic complex."

But to go on about Fred's activities: He hunted up one of the promoters of the beauty pageant, the man who was handling my publicity, and asked to be presented to me. But somehow the meeting didn't come about. My chaperone, I suppose, looked after that. I had been warned, before leaving St. Louis, not to accept the attentions—no matter how flattering or sincere—of rich, elderly fellows who make it a point to visit beauty shows and sit in the front rows at musical comedies.

Secret Message

However, he did get a message to me, told me I was pretty as a picture, with the most innocent, doll-like face, the sweetest, most demure smile and an eager manner that seemed always to be saying, "Aren't we all having the best time in the world?" I suppose I did look like that because I felt like it. I was only 17 years old, you see, and everything was so bright, so electric. It was such a pleasure to reach out mentally and touch the air castles and find they were real.

It is important to remember I did not see Fred then because the newspapers reported that he met me before the contest. They said he was so obsessed with the desire to be seen in my company that he would go out of his way to be photographed with me. That is not true at all, but it is true that after he met me he began to display that combination of pride and intense jealousy I have known only too well. He wanted me to be seen—yet he felt suspicious of every person that looked at me.

That beauty contest narrowed down to me, another girl and "Miss Columbus." Unknown to me, Mr. Nixon-Nirdlinger voted and fought for "Miss St. Louis," but the other judges overruled him, hinting (I understand) that his judgment was influenced by his heart rather than by his head, though he had never seen any of us girls until that contest.

Stage Plans

I suppose it was his chagrin at failing to make me beauty queen that later led him to announce he would make me the reigning stage and screen star of the world! Why he didn't, I will tell you later.

With the fanfare of Atlantic City over, I returned to St. Louis with my chaperone and was paraded through the streets of the city. I had done well for my city and they were proud of me. I was the guest of honor at so many banquets and dinners — it was marvelous.

My parents were wondering what I was going to do next. I thought of the stage, but there seemed to be no openings. Then one day my parents received a letter from Philadelphia offering to pay me $300 per week to appear in the theaters there. Immediately there came to my mind the "Philadelphia millionaire" who had been my secret admirer in Atlantic City.

I was right. For when I entered an office in a theater building in Philadelphia, a man who seemed about 40 approached me with a kindly smile and said:

"I am Mr. Nixon-Nirdlinger. I have waited a long time for this moment, Miss Nash."

Burned Enamel

White enameled kitchen pans and kettles seem pretty hopeless when food has been burned in them. However, put a quantity of soap powder and boiling water in them and let them stand for three or four days. All blackness will wash off with a soft cloth without injury to the enamel.

NEW IDEA SAVES SILK HOSE

Expensive at best, silk hose and undergarments are made doubly so by improper washing. A fashion expert has found a new, simple way to correct this.

She adds a tablespoonful of Energine to every quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Then she washes and rinses the articles as usual. The addition of Energine removes all the body excretions that soften and rot silk.

The results are amazing. Not only does this method give new cleanliness and freshness with original color revived but actually gives longer life to hose and undergarments. Try this new method of adding Energine to soapy water. It's easier and quicker than just soap and water alone, means less rubbing and insures extra wear that will surprise you.

Energine is unexcelled, also, for quickly removing all dirt and grease spots from dresses, hats, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35 cents at any drug store.

Southpaws Harass Bucs. | Odd Twist Stops A's.
Pirate-Card Streaks. | Dreyfuss Pat on Date.
Giants Traveling Fast. | Task for McLarnin.

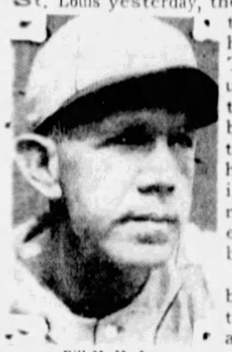
FIVE OF SIX FALLS DUE TO LEFTIES

THOUGH THE PIRATES were unable to hold the lead which they gained by a five-run rally in the eighth inning at St. Louis yesterday, their success in driving Bill Hallahan off the knoll in that frame may mean a happy change of fortune in one respect. They may have broken the spell cast upon them by southpaw pitcher. Prior to the Hallahan rout, lefthanders had been playing such havoc with the Bucs that if the Cardinal victory of yesterday had been credited to the starting pitcher instead of to Paul Derringer the Ensmen's record today would show that every game lost on the present trip had been dropped to a southsider.



Bill Hallahan

Six games won and the same number lost is the count for the cruise up to date and five of the six defeats were administered by lefthanders. The Rovers beat Clarence Mitchell in New York, but they bowed to Tom Zachary and Ed Brandt in Boston, to Jumbo Elliott and Ben Shields in Philadelphia, and to Lester Sweetland in Chicago. Derringer was the first righthander to win a decision over them.

RIVAL CLUBS ARE saving their southpaws for the Corsairs as well as for the Robins. In seven of the 12 games played on the tour so far lefties started against the Pittsburgh club, and in one of those seven bouts, that begun by Stewart Bolen in Philadelphia, a second forkhander, Ben Shields, finished and received credit for the victory.

The explanation is that the bulk of the Pirates' hitting strength is represented by lefthand hitters in the two Waners, George Grantham and Gus Suhr. When Ervin Brame is in the game five of the nine batters swing from the south side of the plate. The Bucs have lost six games to southpaws since the season opened, against four won.

LONG STREAKS APPEAR to be the order for the Pirates and Cardinals in their competition with each other annually. Last year, early defeats at Pittsburgh's hands almost put St. Louis out of the race, as the Pirates were victorious in 12 of the first 16 tilts.

During the remainder of that season the Redbirds won five out of six, and this spring they have taken six out of eight, so that they have beaten the Rovers in 11 of their last 14 meetings. The Cards' six victories over the locals this year have been scored in succession.

THE GIANTS APPEAR to be the only club able to stop the Braves, having taken seven out of 10 games from Boston up to today. The New Yorkers continue to look formidable in the pennant reckoning. Pitching was their only doubtful point when the campaign opened, and the hurlers are coming through in fine style. Carl Hubbell and Bill Walker turned in the best day's slab work of the year yesterday in shutting the Braves out twice, making 22 consecutive innings in which the McKechnies failed to score against New York flinging. The Giants have not lost two games in succession since Boston knocked them off on April 20 and 21. Since that time the McGrawmen have won 16 games, lost six and tied one. They have won nine of their last 12 games, 11 of their last 15 and 15 of their last 20.

Vernon Gomez

BASEBALL SHOWED ANOTHER of its queer turns when the Athletics, after piling up 17 victories in succession and beating nearly all of the best pitchers in the American League, were stopped by a hurler who had not pitched a whole game all season.

Vernon Gomez, of the Yankees, who flagged the Macks in their mad rush when they were within two games of the American League record, had started only twice previously, facing the Red Sox and Senators, and had been knocked out both times. In his five other games he had been used only for relief work. The drive of the A's was the longest in recent years in the majors. They beat every club except Washington in the rush.

THE PRACTICE OF moving up Monday games and manufacturing doubleheaders for Sundays has been followed in some big league cities where patronage was light. But it remained for the Reds and Cards to spring a new one by putting a game back three and a half months in order to create a bargain bill.

Instead of playing last Monday in Cincinnati as scheduled, those clubs shifted the game all the way back to Sunday, September 6, to make a doubleheader. The National League schedule was weird enough in the first place, but it is being juggled into even worse shape. The Cincinnati shift incidentally enabled the Cards to get home for an extra day's rest and save their full pitching strength for the series with the Pirates.

NOT CONTENT WITH scrambling its own schedule, the St. Louis club is trying to interfere with Pittsburgh's. The postponed Pirate-Cub game of April 23 at Forbes Field was set for August 10, an open date. The Bucs play in Cincinnati and the Cubs in St. Louis on August 9, and as the following day could not be used in either of those cities in event of a postponement, inasmuch as all the western clubs must be in the East on the eleventh, the Pirate management selected the tenth as the logical and natural time for the Bruin playoff.

BUT THE CARDINAL bosses have filed objections at league headquarters, claiming first right to the date on the ground that they may wish to play a doubleheader with the Cubs on the ninth, or that extra innings may be necessary, preventing the Chicago club from getting to Pittsburgh in time to play on the tenth.

Inasmuch as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is willing to hold the Pittsburgh train in St. Louis as long as necessary, there is nothing to keep the Cubs from getting here in time, so President Barney Dreyfuss says that in spite of the St. Louis club's objections, which he considers poorly founded, he will stand pat and insist that the Cubs play here on August 10, and that in event of their failing to do so he will claim the game by forfeit.

THE BURDEN OF proof will be on Jimmy McLarnin when he meets Billy Petrolle in a return 10-round fight in New York tonight. Possibly McLarnin will turn the tables on the Fargo Express, as he is favored to do in the betting odds, but the majority of fans will wait for the evidence that he is able to do so.

Billy Petrolle

Jimmy had looked to be superior to his lighter opponent when they clashed on November 21 last, but took a severe lacing. That unexpected outcome, together with six months' absence from the ring and the uncertainty as to how the right hand which was broken on that occasion will hold up, throws considerable doubt around his chances tonight.

M'LARNIN BEAT BOTH Sammy Mandell and Ray Miller in return bouts after being defeated by them, but whether he can do the same to Petrolle remains to be seen, and it will take the actual performance to prove that he is as good as he was before that November whipping. It will be necessary for McLarnin to show a better defense against Petrolle's left hooks and to avoid battering his right hand on the top of Billy's head if he is to change the result. Petrolle, on the other hand, may be a little too confident for his own good. "Get under McLarnin's right and he is quite harmless," Billy says. "For all his remarkable record he is a one-trick fighter. Most of his opponents have been frightened to death. They either stood shaking in their boots or ran away, which suited Jimmy nicely. He likes to walk in slowly, calling his shots, and becomes panicky when crowded. If he keeps that right forearm high to ward off left hooks, as he did in his second bout with Ray Miller, I'll hit him in the stomach so hard with a left hook that he'll reach down and tie his shoes."

EXPERT SHOTS SEEK TEAM POSITIONS

BUTLER, Pa., May 27.—Hundreds of expert small bore riflemen, all keen to try and win a place on the international team which is to be sent to England in July to compete with European teams, began gathering here today for the regional tryouts and tournament, which is to continue through Memorial Day.

It is expected that one or two members of the international team will be eventually selected from the men making the highest scores. The tournament is being directed by the national Rifle Association, and similar tournaments are being held at Washington, D. C., and in each Army Corps area. The best shots at each will be sent to one of the big Army ranges for intensive training.

SCHRIVER TO SCORE

Sergt. O. M. Schriver is being sent by the National Rifle Association to officially score and supervise the matches. The Standard Steel Car Rifle Club, which has prepared a range of 60 targets at Almeda Park, is host, with J. A. Hill, president; Robert Owens, secretary, and R. E. Louden, director, in charge of the details.

At least 400 riflemen are expected to be here Decoration Day, when five-men team matches will occupy the day. About 100 shooters arrived today and are getting in preliminary practice in re-entry matches at the new range.

A couple of hundred more are expected tomorrow when the individual championship, with metallic sights, will be shot. This will be over the Dewar course, which comprises 20 shots at 50 and 20 shots at 100 yards, prone.

Friday there will be a two-men team match over the same course, and on Saturday the same course again for teams of five members. All of the scores made by the individuals in the various matches are averaged for the international tryouts. There will also be an individual championship match for telescope sights over the Dewar course. On each of the three days, when the scheduled matches are not being shot, there will be re-entry matches at both the 50 and 100-yard ranges, for both iron and glass sights.

SEITZSINGER TO SHOOT

The Fort Pitt Rifle Club, of Pittsburgh, has promised to send a strong team here Memorial Day, under the captaincy of Milo R. Coleman, a former Dewar team member. On this team will be Russel Seitzsinger, Perrysville avenue man, who has been on the international large bore team for the past four years, and who last year captured the world championship in the kneeling position at 300 meters in Belgium.

Rifle clubs from Cleveland, Erie, Columbus, Altoona, Cumberland, Wheeling, Youngstown, New Brighton and many other points in the tri-state territory, are entered.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE JUDGMENT HANDED DOWN BY SUPERIOR JUDGE J. R. WELCH—On March 1, 1922, a judgment for a larger amount of money than exists in the world was handed down in the Superior Court of Santa Clara, Cal., by Superior Judge J. R. Welch in a decision on a $100 note made on January 18, 1897, by George Jones in favor of Henry B. Stuart, a grain and feed dealer, both of San Jose, Cal. The exact amount of the decision was $304,840,332,912,685.16. It took a staff of clerks many days to compute the interest on the note, which was made at 10 per cent per month, compounded monthly. A CUBE OF STEEL CONVERTED INTO A SPHERE BY QUENCHING—Several years ago, Eugene Stirnkorb, steel heat treater of S. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 27.—(AP.)—A driver and his mechanic were dashed to death yesterday but their fate failed to retard the speed of a score of others seeking to qualify their cars for the annual 500-mile Memorial Day race at the Indianapolis speedway.

BUTLER WOMEN TAKE LEAD

Oakmont, Allegheny and Butler are at the top of the two groups making up the Team League of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania after yesterday's battling at the St. Clair and Stanton Heights golf clubs.

Oakmont and Allegheny, with perfect averages, maintained their place at the top of Section I, with Oakmont deadlocking the Field Club at 4-all; Allegheny remaining idle; Edgewood whipping Stanton Heights, 6 to 3, and Fox Chapel and Shannopin leveling their contest at 3-all.

Butler swamped Alcoma, 8-0, at St. Clair, to maintain its pace in Section II. Westmoreland knocked off the Country Club of Pittsburgh, 6-3, and St. Clair humiliated Longue Vue, 8-1.

In interscholastic golf tilts, Shady Side Academy beat the University School, of Pittsburgh, 12-2, and Kiski trimmed Hollidaysburg, 9 to 0.

Larimer School Wins Track Meet

The Larimer School was the winner of the Central-East End track and field meet for sixth grade athletes at Westinghouse High School field yesterday with 55 points. Bennett was second with 42½ points and Lincoln and Brushton tied for third place with 41 points.

SAINT NINES CLASH

LATROBE, Pa., May 27.—St. Vincent will be out to score its eighth straight victory over St. Francis here today when the two teams meet at baseball. St. Vincent has beaten St. Francis in every athletic event in which they have met this season.

WILKINSBURG LOSES

Shady Side Academy's track and field team defeated Wilkinsburg in a dual meet yesterday afternoon by a score of 67 1-3 to 54 2-3. Graham, Shady Side captain, was the high scorer with 14 points.

ST. LOUIS, May 27.—Awaiting the second game of the Cardinal series today the Pirates had plenty of time to learn they had dropped into the sixth position as a result of two days of second division didoes that seem to have reaped their own reward. When a club rushes over 15 runs in two days and have nothing better than two defeats to show on their ledger it is time to call a cop.

After getting some bad baseball off their chests in a section of the first battle with the Red Birds yesterday, the Freebooters came in and piled up five big counters in the eighth or just enough to take the lead from the pace setters. There was great excitement in the Pittsburgh bull pen as the National League champs cracked wide open to allow the Buccos to get the five runs.

CARD RALLY WINS

Glen Spencer, the only relief pitcher of consequence on the club at present, came out for third trick in four days. The one-run lead was a formidable thing with Glenn in action, but Cy Rigler seems to have missed the first pitch to Chick Hafey and Chick walked. Capt. Traynor threw high on Douthit's bunt and Grantham looked very bad in trying to catch the ball at first. In a twinkling the game was deadlocked again and Douthit rested on third with the winning run. The Bucco defenses completely cracked at this point and the Redbirds made six tallies in the inning. It looked like curtains.

In came the Pirates and in short order they had the bases packed. In another minute they had the tying run on first, but Watkins nailed P. Waner's bid for an extra-base hit that could have tied up the game, so the champions won, 11 to 9.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

BOSTON, May 27.—All the Athletics have done to this American League race is make the second division consist of seven teams. The only hope our club and the Yankees have got is that Pennsylvania secedes from the Union and leaves the rest of the country to reasonable ball clubs that will drop a game once in a while. I never saw a team put on such a spurt so early in the season. Even the Cleveland Indians had to give up dropping games for every one the A's won, it got so tiresome. So far as the Athletics are concerned, all the other clubs just look like the Red Sox to them. They just ain't human.

GIANTS REMAIN ON HEELS OF CARDINALS

Shannopin, Highland Golfers Clash in Grogan Cup Competition Today

YANKS CHECK A'S; TRIBE COPS PAIR

Associated Press.

Boston has been a tough customer for most of the National League's Clubs this season, but the Giants have gone right along handing the Braves one setback after another.

The count now stands 7 to 3 for New York as the Giants, a bit behind in their race with the St. Louis Cardinals scored two shutout victories yesterday to regain their odd position of being a half-game ahead of the Cards by one method of counting, but a few points behind in the percentages.

Manager John McGraw teamed up his pair of star southpaws for the afternoon sending out Carl Hubbell to take a 3-to-0 victory in the first game and Bill Walker to win the second, 6 to 0.

PIRATES LOSE

St. Louis held its place at the top of the standing with some difficulty, winning a wide-open slugging match from Pittsburgh 11 to 9.

The Phillies beat Brooklyn, 8 to 4, with an effective combination of the southpaw pitching of Big Jim Elliott and the hard and timely hitting of Buzz Arlett and Pinky Whitney.

Chicago's Cubs had little trouble taking two games from Cincinnati. Improving their position in fourth place until they are only a half game behind Boston. Bob Smith hurled the first game, winning 7 to 2, and Ed Baecht and Charley Root divided the work in the second, granting seven hits for a 9-6 triumph.

YANKS STOP A'S

The New York Yankees supplied something of a sensation for American League fans when they downed the Philadelphia Athletics 6 to 2, stopping the winning streak of the world's champions after 17 straight games. Lefty Gomez halted the A's with seven hits, while the Yanks drove Ed Rommel out with a three-run burst in the second inning. Babe Ruth topped off the job with his seventh homer of the year.

Boston also ended a streak. One of seven straight defeats, by beating out Washington, 6 to 4. Jack Russell outlasted Sam Jones, who had won four game without being charged with a defeat. The St. Louis Browns dropped a pair to Cleveland while Washington, after a day in second place, dropped back to third.

SCOTTIES GAIN SECOND PLACE

Scottdale gained full possession of second place in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday, but did not gain on the leading Cumberland Colts. The Scotties blanked Altoona, 5 to 0, Mueller hurling a six-hit game, while Hagerstown was beaten by Fairmont and slipped down into third place. Hagerstown lost, 11 to 3.

Cumberland continued its killing pace by lacing Charleroi in the opening game of the series, 6 to 1. Helmick limited the Guys to four hits. Wheeling won another, beating Johnstown, 4 to 1, with Yocke turning in a fine two-hit performance.

Fan Invades Ring; Kayos Wrestler

BALTIMORE, May 27. (AP.)—A wrestling bout here last night between Dick Daviscourt and Gino Garibaldi was brought to a sudden end when a spectator rushed into the ring and knocked Daviscourt unconscious with a blow on the jaw.

The wrestlers had been in the ring about 20 minutes and Daviscourt, a Californian, had a strangle hold on his Italian opponent at the time of the attack. The assailant, sitting at the ringside, was described as a foreigner and well over 6 feet in height.

He was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. At the police station he gave the name of Thomas Lusso, and a Baltimore address.

I. K. S. WINS TITLE

Defeating the Varsity Club last night in the final match of the schedule by scores of 13-15, 15-11 and 15-9, the I. K. S. volley ball team won the City League championship. Singer, Frank, Grotein, Packler, Stoshanz, Granof, Kalson and Kline compose the team.

MEINE TO FACE CARDS TODAY

SOUTHPAWS CHASED

Larry French and Bill Hallahan staged a southpaw duel in the opener, both disappearing before the finish. Ben Sankey dropped a fly that gave the Redbirds two runs in the fifth, but the home team had a two run lead before this costly misplay came about. French made way for a pinch hitter in the noisy eighth. Paul Derringer staggered to the ultimate Cardinal success.

Comorosky tried hard to put his team out in front in the second. Commy was on second with one out as Phillips batted. Eddie had a three and two count when he walked, Commy stealing on the last pitch. The Red Bird infield played deep for Sankey and Ben hit into a double play.

Bottomley singled to start the home half and when Suhr threw low to French, Jim took second. Hafey chose this moment for his first homer of the season.

Hallahan opened the third with a hit, but Bill was hit with Adams' roller and was out. The drive was a sure hit. Blades singled to advance Adams to second and the bases were filled when High singled. Bottomley's long fly to L. Waner gave the Cards a run.

P. Waner scored for the Pirates in the fourth. Paul opened with a walk, but was still on first with two out when Suhr doubled to left center.

Hallahan singled to start the fifth, but he was forced by Adams who went out stealing. Blades and High walked and both scored when Sankey dropped Bottomley's little fly. There was no further scoring until the explosion of the eighth.

PATSY PERRONI, COURTNEY TO BOX AT BOWL

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Patsy Perroni, of Canton, O., and George Courtney, former Oklahoma Cowboy, have been matched to box the 10-round main bout of the third open-air show of the season at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, next Monday night.

Announcement was made today by Matchmaker Jules Beck, after he had encountered considerable difficulty to arranging a match for this date, due to his inability to secure opponents for Baby Joe Gans and Johnny Indrisano, whom he originally planned to use as headliners.

Perroni is well known to the local fans, who have seen him box Emmett Rocco, Harry Williams and others. Courtney never has boxed in these parts, but is well known nationally. He is managed by Jack Kearns and Teddy Hayes, who also handle Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion.

Marty Gormick, of Whitaker, and Benny McArthur, of McKeesport, will box the second bout and Billy Holt, of Homewood, and Tait Langford, of Canton, O., will be in the opener. The semi-final will be arranged today.

Between Rounds

Angelo Vergiome, of Braddock, who has beaten Benny Goldstein, of Baltimore, and Benny Goldhair, of Chicago, both highly touted lads in the last two starts, has been matched with hard-hitting Frankie Borowski, of Erie, in the semi-final to the Tony Herrera-Eddie Anderson bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night of next week.

Tommy Crawley, of the South Side, is training daily at the Pittsburgh Lyceum and would like to get a bout with the winner of the Grazy-Brannon battle.

Upsets of the dope have become so common in New York, bouts that it takes a lot to surprise the fans nowadays, but Jimmy McLarnin will have to demonstrate that he has learned how to guard against a left hook to justify the odds in his favor in the return bout with Bill Petrolle in Madison Square Garden, tonight. Petrolle, the last of another McLarnin victim, has been training Jimmy on the theory that Jimmy's left (in the fight last November and narrowly missed knocking him out. The old left hook turned the trick for both Jimmy's ever been a sucker for that punch.

They're calling Apples Meyers, manager of the Bowl, Pineapples Meyers, now since a couple of bombs were found on the premises a few days ago.

Frankie Chatterton and Joe Schlund box an eight-round main bout in Cleveland tomorrow night. Larry Mange meets Paul Pirrone there next Monday.

TWO TOURNEYS CARDED FOR WOMEN

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The Redskins are at war with the Kilts!

Yes, sir!

And the hills and dales that mark the home hunting grounds of the Tribe of Shannopin—that noble chief of big chiefs, or little chiefs, if you will have it thus—rang with the war-whoop, the result of pars, and birdies and eagles — and buzzards — as the Hubach cohorts dealt many a sad blow to the hopes and efforts of the Scotsmen of Hetzel.

PLAY 18 HOLES

When the first 18-hole round of the annual 36-hole test for club supremacy began at Shannopin this afternoon, far be it from kilt-clad Highlanders to waste mere words on the subject. And so it was that only war-whoops resounded through the bleak forests—and fairways and greens—as the greatest inter-club match of the year got under way.

Highland presented a team of 100 strong against the valiant band of Shannopinites, in the Grogan Cup duel, and the Scotsmen were well satisfied, for they knew that, even though they met defeat in the inaugural skirmish of the season, a free buffet dinner was awaiting them upon their return this evening. And all this with a gent by the name of Wally Thompson (and it might as well have been MacThompson), in charge of the affair in behalf of Shannopin, the defending titleholder.

Aside from this burst of golf, there is a fine tourney in progress at the Stanton Heights Golf Club. The Mellon Bank linksmen are engaging in their first conquest of the season, and some good scores are anticipated.

WOMEN AT CHARTIERS

An 18-hole medal play event for the women at Chartiers Heights, and a two-ball foursome competition at Valley Heights also are on the golf books for today.

Tomorrow a big one-day tournament for women who are members of clubs affiliated with the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is slated for the South Hills Country Club.

RING BILL KILLED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 27. (AP.)—The Illinois Senate practically killed the Koster bill, providing for 15-round championship boxing matches, by amending it to permit only 10-round matches, the present length. The bill has already passed the House.

Given a good break in the weather Alderman Marty Griffin will see his entry in the West Penn League play its first home game at the Schenley High School field this evening, when the Turtle Creek Community nine visits the Hill.

The Griffins had both of their games rained out last week, and naturally the Hill supporters are anxious to take a look at the club that Manager Americus and Davy Roberts have lined up.

Roberts is an old timer, and he likely has a good aggregation on hand to keep up the reputation he established in the past.

At Moultrie Park, the St. Joachim nine will take on the strongest opposition that has ever visited Soho when George Miller and his Reliance Life nine put in an experience.

SAINTS SEEK WIN

Manager Mike Kudrau hopes to break into the win column soon, and it would tickle the Soho outfit to stop the Reliance team. Miller has the Insurance boys hitting on all cylinders, and with Spencer and Gormley twirling great ball, the H. G. Scott proteges seem certain of a good season.

In the Steel City League, Homewood fans will see the East End Cardinals clash with the Brodericks. The Cardinals have won the last two tilts. Hussey, Donahue and Paisley give the Cards a good pitching staff.

Out at Dormont, the fans will have another chance to see the Homestead Grays in action, opposing the Dormont club of the City League.

Doak has been announced as the pitcher to start against Posey's hard-hitting aggregation, and if the spitter is functioning, Bill should give the Grays a battle.

The irrepressible Jimmy Hess, of New Kensington, kicks in with a little note stating that he is handling the Braeburn Steel nine, and that it is one of the best clubs ever gathered together around the aluminum town.

STARS ON ROSTER

Heasley and Pickles Fredericks are playing with the club, and Jimmy's kid brother, together with Rimach and Jenson, are featured members of the outfit. Jimmy also states that the St. Peter's mush-ball team, of the Allegheny Catholic League, challenges any mush-ball team in the Pittsburgh district.

Managers in the district looking for a good lefthander that has been a steady winner in the minor leagues might look up Sisler, formerly of the New York-Pennsylvania League, and the Ontario loop. Winning three games and losing one in the New York-Pa. loop, and winning six and losing three games in the Canadian circuit looks like real portsiding. He arrived in Pittsburgh a couple of days ago, and can be reached at Grant 9997.

Outside of Leo Carroll there is a scarcity of really good lefthanders on the sandlots. Lefty Hall looked good in the West Penn League game at Swissvale with the Linwood club, but southpaws are not numerous, so it is possible that Sisler will connect with one of the clubs of the district.

SCHAAF KAYOS JIM MALONEY

BOSTON, May 27.—(AP.)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, knocked out Jimmy Maloney, his home town rival, in the first round of their scheduled 10-round bout at the Boston Garden last night. Schaaf weighed 202½, a pound more than Maloney.

Maloney, who recently gave Primo Carnera two good fights, was a 10-7 favorite. A left hook split Jim's lip shortly after the first gong and a right that followed sent him staggering down for the count. Jack Sharkey, Maloney's nemesis, now part-manager of Schaaf, was in the latter's corner.

Murphy Tosses Spear 188 Feet in Meet

BUTLER, May 27.—Butler High School completed its track season last night by defeating Rochester in a dual meet, 81 to 32. John Murphy, state javelin champion, threw the oaken stick a distance of 188 feet 3 inches. Butler took first in the broad jump, high jump, javelin, discus, shot put, and tied with Rochester in the pole vault.

In the track events, Butler won the 100, 440, 120 low hurdles and mile relay. Rochester placed first in the mile, 220 and 880.

STEELE WINS LOCAL BOUT

Before a small crowd, Ray Steele, of Glendale, Cal., and John Podoubney, of Russia, inaugurated the outdoor wrestling season in the Pittsburgh district at Hickey Park, Millvale, last night. Steele, tipping the scales at 212, had little trouble with the big Russian, who was seven pounds lighter. The bout ended after 20 minutes 31 seconds, Ray employing a series of headlocks to toss his opponent.

Using his most effective method of attack, the flying tackle, Jim McMillen, former Illinois football star, pinned George Tragos, of Greece, to the mat after 21 minutes 45 seconds of grappling in the semi-windup. McMillen weighed 215, Tragos 198.

In the other bouts of 30 minutes each, to a fall or decision, Floyd Marshall, of Los Angeles, 210, with a succession of body slams, threw Steve Znoski, of Poland, 215, in 13 minutes 27 seconds.

Cleveland Fight Injunction Denied

CLEVELAND, May 27.—(AP.)—Injunction to stop the Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight championship bout at the Cleveland Municipal Stadium, July 3, was denied today by Common Pleas Judge Thomas M. Kennedy.

The judge's opinion was about 1,500 words. He fixed a $5,000 appeal bond.

The suit was brought by Attorney Joseph H. Mellen in behalf of a Cleveland taxpayer. It was Mellen's contention that the bout would be a "prize fight," illegal in Ohio.

STOGIES SIGN THREE

WHEELING, W. Va., May 27.—Three new players were added to the roster of the local Middle Atlantic League club yesterday. They were Outfielder Ed Gildembie, Shortstop Bill Mitchell and Second Baseman Larry Humphrey.

LIFERS SCORE SHUTOUT IN C. & I. LOOP

It is getting so that a team is lucky to score on this Reliance Life nine, much less defeat it. Last evening, the Pittsburgh Coal nine was blanked, 7 to 0, in a C. and I. League game. In another league fray, Hornes walloped B. and O., 11 to 2.

In the City League, the J. L. Thomas nine lost its second game in as many evenings, losing to the North Side Buicks, 8 to 4. Homewood won another by crushing the North Side Civics, 10 to 4.

The Homestead Aces defeated Linwood, 9 to 6, in the West Penn circuit, and Turtle Creek nosed out the Martins, 2 to 1. In the Greater Pittsburgh League, the Wally Smiths defeated Fintex, 6-5; North Bessemer downed Whitaker, 7-5, and Immaculate Heart downed the Jenkins, 3 to 1.

The Crafton Presbyterians defeated the Methodists in a Crafton-Ingram Church League tussle, 7 to 2, and the Lineys won over the St. George team in the North-South League, 14 to 0.

In independent tussles, Snee Dairy defeated Bellevue, 5-2; Mackeys walloped the Bank of Pittsburgh, 8-2; Tyson Aces downed the Quaells, 11-7; M. C. B. Club nosed out Carsons, 8-7, the East Liberty Traders beat the St. Clair Frogs, 4-1; Cyclones crushed the North Side Elks, 14-3, and Calvary M. E. defeated the Pirates, 8-1.

Seat Sale Brisk For Holiday Frays

Two bumper holiday crowds will witness the morning and afternoon games between the Pirates and Cubs at Forbes Field on Memorial Day, Pittsburgh club officials anticipate in view of the brisk rate at which the public sale of reserved seat tickets is progressing.

This sale will continue daily at all of the usual agencies right up to the day of the game, it is announced.

FIGHT CALLED OFF

OAKLAND, Cal., May 27.—(INS.)—The 10-round fight scheduled here next month between Gorilla Jones, Akron, Negro welterweight, and Young Corbett, of Fresno, Cal., had been called off by promoters today because of Jones' suspension by the Illinois State Athletic Commission following his fight in Chicago with Bucky Lawless.

GEISLER WITH DORMONT

Harry Geisler, Villanova athlete, has been signed by the Dormont club, of the City League, and will join the team next week.

WESTINGHOUSE BEATEN IN PLAYOFF

Efforts will be made this afternoon to settle the Section II baseball championship in the City Scholastic League as Carrick and Oliver make another attempt to stage the game they already tried three times to play. Rain ended play last week in the second inning. It was rescheduled for Monday, postponed on account of rain and then set back again yesterday because of a track and field meet at Carrick.

The Section I title again went to Schenley's lockers yesterday as the Bellefielders defeated Westinghouse in a playoff tussle, 5 to 2. The Bellefielders, defending champions in the league, will sit back and rest until the Section II race is settled.

If Oliver wins today, the scrap is over and the Brighton Road entry will meet Schenley in the three-game series for the championship, beginning Friday. If Carrick wins, Oliver will have to meet South Hills in a playoff game to decide the championship.

Earl Stratton hurled well yesterday in turning back Westinghouse, and his mates hit at opportune moments behind him. Stratton set the Silver Lakers down with three safe hits.

McKees Rocks waded into the final round of the W. P. I. A. L. tournament by eliminating Mt. Pleasant, 9 to 0, and now will meet McKeesport in the championship game tomorrow at Forbes Field.

McKeesport blanked Shady Side yesterday, 9 to 0. Langley defeated Wilkinsburg in an independent tussle, 5 to 3, and Washington Traders won over Gladstone, 7 to 1, in other scholastic encounters.

Ed Roush Spikes Grimm; Fight Proves Dud

CINCINNATI, May 27.—(AP.)—Charley Grimm, Cub first baseman, was spiked by Eddie Roush, going into first in the fourth inning of the second game here yesterday, and was injured so badly he had to leave the game.

Grimm made a rush at Roush and five Cubs came running from the dugout, followed by several of the Reds from the bench. It took two umpires to get the players quieted. No one was ordered from the field and play was resumed quickly.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO DECLINE

Steel Drops 4 Points to New 8-Year Low Mark; Selling Volume Light

NEW YORK, May 27.—(A. P.)—Despite the Stock Exchange's action to restrain ar rading, and expressions qualified optimism from igh financial and governmental sources, the wearing away of valu went stubbornly forward in today's market.

Steel and rail shares were particularly weak, and the general list declined 1 to more than 4 points to a new low for the bear market, although selling was in light volume.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported further slackening of output, and U. S. Steel common dropped 4 points to a new eight-year low around 91. Miscellaneous issues losing 2 to more than 4 points included American Telephone, American Can, American Smelting, Eastman, Bethlehem Steel, DuPont, New York Central, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio and New Haven. The market turned upward for a few minutes in the first hour but thereafter sold almost steadily lower.

The opinion expressed by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. at the National Foreign Trade Council that current pessimism is being carried to unreasonable extremes is one widely held in high banking quarters. That the steady decline in share values has represented real liquidation more than bear selling is a prevalent belief. It is also felt that it represents in a substantial measure needless pulling of securities out of strong boxes and dumping them upon the market by flighty investors.

The statement made at the White House that the President and his advisers now find many favorable factors in the economic situation left the stock market cool, in view of the rather arid showing made by the mid-week business statistics. It has been repeatedly pointed out, however, that surface indications at this season are normally unfavorable.

The fresh selling of the rail shares may have reflected some disappointment that the Interstate Commerce Commission has refused to make the first official move in the campaign for an upward revision of freight rates. There had been no general expectation, however, that the commission would take the initial step, and the fact that the first 32 railroads reporting April net operating income showed a shrinkage of roughly one-third from April, 1930, against a loss of only one-fourth in March, was perhaps more discouraging. The slashing of rail dividends continues. Pere Marquette omitting its quarterly payment of $1.50.

President Farrell of U. S. Steel, said at the foreign trade gathering that an upturn in commodity prices was required as an impetus to trade. A crumb of comfort was, therefore, gleaned from Standard Statistics Company's monthly commodity survey, appearing today, which saw no immediate sign of a momentary change in trend, but found that "conditions are now unusually propitious" for such a development.

The export copper price was brought down to a basis comparable with the domestic level of 8¾ cents a pound. The weekly petroleum statistics showed a small gain in crude output. The electric power production figures failed to show improvement.

In the foreign situation, a quieting down of the Berlin Bourse, after yesterday's sharp break, was encouraging.

Electricity Output Declines for Week

NEW YORK, May 27.—Production of electricity in the United States decreased last week, showing a slight decline from the previous week and a drop of 4.4 per cent from a year ago. In comparison with 1930 the recession was the largest in some time. There was no change in output on the Atlantic seaboard. The Pacific Coast gained 3.2 per cent, but the central industrial centers showed a decrease of 8.8 per cent over 1930.

Industrial Payroll High During 1929

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The industrial payroll of the United States in 1929 was $15,229,161,429 for 10,185,296 persons employed by 210,710 firms.

The Census Bureau, announcing the result of the 1929 biennial census of manufactures, listed 8,807,536 industrial wage earners paid $11,649,536,855 and 1,377,760 salaried workers who received $3,579,624,574.

Stock Exchange Topics

Wall street professed to be a trifle puzzled by the move on the part of the Exchange in seeking data on borrowed and loaned stock. Some were moved to recall the official comment which followed the completion of a similar inquiry sent out in the midst of the November, 1929, break. Speaking in Boston last June, Richard Whitney, president of the Exchange, in touching on that subject said in part: "It was found that the aggregate amount of borrowed stock was so small as to be almost inconsequential being in fact only about one-eighth of 1 percent of the value of all stocks listed on the exchange. The study was made as of November 12, which incidentally marked the lowest point reached by stock market price barometers in that period. It was assumed that in all probability the main purpose of the move is that of obtaining possible light on concerted bearish activities such as Mr. Whitney referred to in a speech at Chicago last October.

If it does nothing more the questionnaire, provided some light on what it discloses is made public, should do much to clear up the situation existing in the stock loan market. With 25 to 30 individual issues ruling that market at premiums almost daily for some time past there has been a disposition to accept such conditions as indicating the presence of a very substantial open short account in the market. But the manner in which stocks have declined week after week without anything much in the way of rally to speak of has resulted of late in a good deal of discussion on that score. It has left Wall street to wonder whether the premium status of such issues results from unusually heavy demand, or whether it is merely the consequence of an indisposition on the part of brokerage houses to lend stocks because of the fact that prevailing low interest rates does not make this a very profitable business for the present.

Recently some long pull buying has developed in Montgomery Ward because of the belief that company prospects over the long term are somewhat more favorable than in the past. While buying from the agricultural districts is dormant at the moment, it is argued that with a good crop later in the year the rural sections should increase their purchases. Montgomery Ward, of course, will get its share of this business.

Boston and Maine Railroad directors authorized the following statement: "Earnings for April compared with the same month last year were the best since February, 1930, and for the first four months compare favorably with any railroad in the country. It is the opinion of a majority of the board that the wise course is to defer action on the common stock dividend at this time with the idea of paying during the year dividends upon the common as earned rather than in anticipation of earnings. In such a year as this, directors feel it will be proper to pay out in dividends the full amount of net earnings up to $4 per share on the common stock, and from best estimates of gross earnings that they are able to make, expect earnings will be sufficient to enable them to pay at least $3 per share, of which $1 was paid April 1."

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit has been one of the good actors during the past few days. Previously the issue had encountered support on all recessions and purchasers at lower levels have been disinclined to accept profits during the later upturns. The important position of the system in any traction settlement is recognized in Wall Street and this has been responsible in part for the demand.

Wall Street is actively discussing the earnings of Allied Chemical. Because of the statement that earnings results for the first four months were just large enough to cover dividend needs there are some who predict that the revenues for the full year will fall below the regular $6 dividend. The point is made that the first quarter presumably will be the best three-month period of the entire year and that unless the chemical price situation improves the results later on will be less satisfactory.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27. The curb market was reactionary today, bending slightly under the weight of moderate selling which was especially noticeable in the oils and specialties. The utility group, around its lows for the year, was fairly steady, but a few issues sagged under their previous minimums.

NEW YORK, May 27. (AP) Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in. 00 omitted in sales column of stock list. 000 omitted in sales column of bond list:

Rarick Plans to Interest Avery in New Scheme

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XVIII.

It was in his role of patron of the arts that the Committee of Internationalists, Inc., which was one day to be of the most potent forces in the young theater movement in America, came before Rarick.

They were three. A young fellow named Trigoloff, with a crooked and strangely powerful profile, who had written a two-act play in 31 episodes which had been produced in a cellar called the Rhomboid Theater. A Miss Virginia Adelbert, with blond hair, cropped, polished, and parted on the side like a boy's, in tailored clothes, soft shirt, and who carried her crush felt hat under her arm and her package of cigarets protruding from a tailored pocket.

Seek Financial Aid

The third member of this group, Gratton Davies, was a young professor of dramatic composition at a city university. His comedy, "Herod's Mask," had been a success the season before. Here was a fellow of such abounding and amusing enthusiasm that it was inevitable he should have been elected spokesman for this occasion.

He had a thatch of thick tan hair, which jumped and fell from the roots, as he sat on the edge of his chair, his opening sentence accomplishing what it set out to do as concisely as a good headline flare of advertising.

"Mr. Rarick, we have chosen you to sponsor what is without any doubt to be the most significant and far-reaching experiment in the history of the American theaters. I used the word 'chosen' advisedly, because the man who is granted the privilege of bringing to life our plan is going to get a ride for his money to the peak of artistic - success - with-a-box-office value."

"Yes, young man?" said Rarick, with a bitter kind of mockery playing around his lips. This was not the fellow himself speaking. This was the young scholar, suiting his phrase, his manner, and his matter to his man. In other words, "selling his idea" to big business.

Young Davies was talking down to Rarick in terms of the one aspect of the enterprise that interested him least of all, and yet which was so essential to the very life and breath of their beautiful baby of an idea. Money. Without it, that beautiful baby must perish aborning.

"Money, Mr. Rarick, is what we need from you."

Discuss Policies

His resentments, he told himself, were absurd. What else had he to offer? Presently these three, and the confreres who spoke their language, would recede into the laboratories of their imaginations. They could talk to one another from these laboratories. Where did he, Rarick, come in? Why sit stiffly before this young barker up the Himalayas and bark back a bitter "Yes, young man," into his enthusiasms.

"Don't think, Mr. Rarick, that our ideas are all visionary. We don't propose to drive the commercial theater out of business. Nothing of the sort."

"Now, don't you?"

"No, sir. We propose to supplant, in time—with thought, with discrimination, with genius, with money—the garbage of the present commercial theater, by giving the people pre-digested, intellectual, artistic and entertaining fodder. But it is not so much a matter of throwing out the commercial theater, Mr. Rarick, as cleaning out the Augean dramatic stables. That is why we dare to approach you with a proposition which will ultimately grant you full return on your money. Not that you are interested in exacting any such guaranty as that from us, but——"

Young rascal! Young walker in the Pyrenees. Young three there, who presently, once outside his doors, would revert to the swift, ruthless well-informed talk of their own world, and who might even ape and deride the holder of the strings of the money bags . . .

Thinks of Avery

". . . Of course, I am not here to bore you with our standard of production, the literary ideal we have set for ourselves . . ."

"Why not?" barked Rarick. "You can't put your cart before your horse."

"What Mr. Davies means," hastened Miss Adelbert, "is that we have long ago threshed out our literary policies. That has been taken care of. It's money we——"

"Can't see why the money-concerns of such an organization as you describe are a thing separate and apart from its policies. They overlap. My selling-policies regarding an article can only be determined after I am thoroughly familiar with the article itself."

"In the theater, Mr. Rarick, that scarcely applies. Our production-policies have nothing to do with our financial ones. We need an initial endowment of $100,000 to put them into what we firmly believe will be a successful practice. We want you to be the man to have sufficient faith in those production-policies to endow our baby."

A thought smote Rarick.

"Young people, take my boy into this enterprise with you!"

If he had said, "Young people, take my howling red monkey into this enterprise with you," he could not have struck a more compelling silence across the faces of these three.

"I've a boy, Youngster. Bright as a new nickel. I'd like him to sharpen his teeth, come vacation, on a few young people like you. I'd like to see him get interested in groups that will get him acquainted with some of the things I think he may be missing."

"Your son is interested in the theater, Mr. Rarick?"

"I wouldn't say that, Miss Adelbert," snapped Rarick. "It is I who am interested in interesting him."

"I see."

Of course she did not see, nor did any of them, sitting there so politely mindful of the hand that held the money-bags.

"Let my boy in on the ground floor of this new-theater idea—agree to take him into your fold when he comes out of college—"

"Why, of course, Mr. Rarick, if he is interested. We would want to meet him. See what's on his mind. It could—er—of course be done. Always a place in a workshop like ours. . . ."

"On that basis, then, and subject to specifications which Mr. Hellman will arrange at my dictation, you may consider that I will seriously take under advisement the matter of endowing your group."

The three young people who finally, walking on air, turned their faces toward the Eleventh Street cafe, left Rarick sitting there crouched deeply in the enormous chair which faced the organ.

An idea had, for the moment, completely captured his fancy. What if the boy had somewhere imbedded in him a talent for this sort of creative thing?

Avery must not be cheated of his walking-trip through the Pyrenees. There was plenty of time later for the two-feet-on-the-ground business of training him to be the son of one of the richest men in the world.

Rarick Confused

Presently Rarick began a letter to his son. Somehow, with the concrete pen on the concrete paper, the words began to clog in his brain. There were things that could not be broached out of a clear sky. Nothing had ever been said between father and son to prepare Avery for the popping of this notion into the head of his parent. The dread of seeming ridiculous in his son's clear eyes began to matter above everything in Rarick's tired brain as he sat there, his pen drying above the paper.

It was difficult, practically impossible, to convey to his boy that the idea prompted by the three avid young faces, and most of all by the fellow named Davies, had not to do with their little enterprise itself, but somewhere behind it all was a symbol . . . a symbol of some kind of release which he wanted for his boy.

One could not get that easily said, at least not without danger of appearing ridiculous to a college boy in his teens, who could want for a speed-boat as desperately as Avery had wanted for his.

The letter was to remain in the limbo of unwritten ones.

"Five and Ten" Synopsis

John G. Rarick has made millions as a chain store operator. He buys a magnificent home after being urged by his wife, Jenny, and finds himself hating her. This is accentuated by his own temperamental inability to get close to Jennifer and Avery, his children. Rarick installs an odd genius, Dr. Felix Gerkes, in his house. Jenny objects, but to no avail. Jenny begins to be intrigued with Ramon Lopez, a youthful gigolo. Avery comes home from school to beg his mother to help him get leave from his father to have a couple of years to himself. Jennifer likes the handsome and rich Barry Rhodes, and Jenny urges her to try and win him. Berry kisses Jennifer while taking her to one of Leslie Edgerton's parties. Jennifer is not welcomed very cordially by Leslie and feels humiliated. Leslie becomes boisterous when she sees Jennifer and Berry by themselves. Leslie says she is married to Berry and Jennifer goes home feeling shamed.

DAILY TRUE STORY — A Story Plot

Lawyer Informs Benefactor About Odd Will

Old Silas Farnum believed in marriage.

He had never married!

That was why he believed in the institution.

In his younger years he had been wrapped up in many widespread enterprises that, with his constant jumping about and close attention, piled up his fortune.

But he had not had time, as he looked at it, to take unto himself a wife.

Later he became extremely lonesome. His brother, who had prospered well enough but had not amassed big money, had been apparently happy. He had a wife, a son and a nice home.

And so, when Gregory Farnum, the nephew of old Silas, became thirty, and was still in a state of single blessedness, Silas changed his will somewhat.

The revised will read that if Gregory Farnum, his nephew, had not married by the time he was thirty-three he was to receive five thousand instead of five hundred thousand.

The old man explained, briefly, that he was not satisfied that bachelorhood was good, especially for his nephew, who seemed to be quite careless of the responsibilities of life.

But the picture was taken in a German beer garden and there were huge liters of a dark and foamy brew on the table beside them. Now, the old man didn't object to a little beer, he wasn't that narrow, but he wasn't very enthusiastic over having his nephew chum around with some little blonde in a beer garden.

Intend to Marry

The place for a girl and a woman, and especially for a wife, was in the home, the old man believed, and if a girl ran around with handsome 30-year-old American men in beer gardens before she married she would likely keep it up.

Hence the change in the will.

The girl was not exactly a dizzy blonde. The immense liter of dark brew before her was not hers at all, it belonged to her brother, who took the picture and was an acquaintance of Gregory's. More than that, Gregory had fallen in love with Alicia Dowling just prior to this time.

The Dowlings lived in Boston. It was all quite nice and proper; and had Uncle Silas known, he would not have bothered about the will being changed because affairs between Alicia and Gregory had already progressed to where it was understood that after Alicia finished her two years in college she might consent to become Mrs. Farnum — providing they both felt the same way about it then.

Mr. Robert Truxton, junior member of a law firm, did know about it. To Gregory, Mr. Robert Truxton was "Old Truxy," who had been through one prep school, one college and a score of escapades with him.

Truxton Arrives

Perhaps the ethics of Truxy's profession—if it had ethics—should not permit him to tip Gregory, but he intended to do so, just as soon as he could have a chance to see him. He couldn't put it in writing, that was certain.

At the end of the two years, when Alicia Dowling was graduated from her college, both she and Gregory believed that the marriage idea still seemed to be a pretty good idea.

Then Alicia lost her mother.

She would wait a year. Some people didn't, but Alicia's relatives were rather old-fashioned and she thought it best.

Gregory had enough of an income to keep him fairly happy, and this he augmented, now and then, by turning out one of those allegedly popular detective novels—under a pen name.

At this time he was up at his camp, Crag Lodge, which wasn't much of a lodge as to style, but a great place for fishing and wild life. It took two days, driving by buckboard over roads a car could not negotiate, to get to the chain of ponds and a half day's paddling, with portages, to get to his camp.

Mornings and evenings Gregory fished. During the middle of the day he hammered out detective plots on his typewriter; nights he attended assiduously to sleeping. Once a week he wrote to Alicia and once a week Ben Norton went down to the village for mail and supplies.

Bessie was 20, strong, wholesome and a mighty nice girl who yearned to go to the big city and study medicine, to come back to the wilds of home and practice.

It was at this time that Mr. Robert Truxton arrived with the mail, provisions and Bessie Norton, and Mr. Truxton was very much excited.

"Hell, no!" he said to Gregory as soon as he got him alone, "I didn't come to fish. I came up to tell you that your Uncle Silas has died and—"

Gregory was mighty sorry to receive the news.

"But a message would have reached me sooner," he finally said.

"No."

"If you got back is there any girl there who would marry you before midnight?"

"Not if I had my senses. The girl I'm to marry next November lives in Boston, but happens to be abroad with her brother and his wife. What's all this foolishness?"

"If you aren't married by tomorrow midnight all this foolishness is an even half million dollars gone to charity instead of your pocket!"

Outlines Proposition

Gregory went around to the ell where his kitchen was and found Bessie Norton having something to eat before paddling down the ponds to the village and home.

"Bessie," he said, for he had known her since she was a kid of ten, "would you marry me for fifty thousand?"

"Know any more jokes, Mr. Farnum?"

Ben Norton spoke up for the first time then.

"If I hadn't known Mr. Farnum since he was knee high to a grasshopper I'd cuss him out for suggestin' such a thing, but whatever he says you can depend on, so, Bess, if you think it ain't too crazy an idea, here's your chance to become a doctor."

"We'll go down to the village; we'll get there by midnight. Then we'll find a minister—"

"No, Mr. Farnum, no minister nearer than Kamsackett, but we have a town clerk and I'm a justice of the peace," Ben explained.

They packed, paddled down, slept from 1 until 7 in Ben's old but comfortable farmhouse, and then secured the license.

Truxy explained that he would advance any amount soon as they reached the city.

And so they were married and they shook hands like a couple of warm friends and parted.

Double Wedding

"This is a plot for a great novel, Gregg," he said. "This marriage, which is merely a sort of business transaction—you carry the story on, and you have some sort of a falling out with the girl you intend to marry and time goes on and you have an accident and this girl is then a doctor. Get me?"

"I'm away ahead of you. She cares for me and you expect for me to be grateful, in the novel, of course, and marry her again."

"No; she never kept her word, never divorced you, always loved you, so you're still married—great plot, what?"

"Except that I am going to marry Alicia."

They shook hands on it.

"I'll guarantee that Bessie divorces you. You see, coming down in the canoe with her that night we fell in love and as soon as she's divorced, we're going to marry."

"Well, that's great, you are a great and speedy lover, Truxy, but a bum novelist, you chump. The way this is coming out is a cracker-jack finish for a novel. I'd write it myself only I do not intend to write any more now.

"All right, Gregg."

"I might write it into just a short story—because I've got a fine finishing line for it:

"There was a double wedding in the fall.

"And a pleasant time was had by all!"

Truxy groaned — "Poetry — terrible," he said.

Pious and Patriotic

Councilman English Is as Unconvincing in One Role As in the Other.

Councilman English, opposing an open investigation of the Supplies Department scandal, quoted Scripture in an effort to show his critics were persecuting him, and said, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do."

In opposing the movement to protect the children of Pittsburgh from death or injury from Fourth of July fireworks, English said: "We shouldn't try to override the established custom of the nation in celebrating this great Independence Day of ours."

He is as unconvincing when he appeals to patriotism as an excuse for putting explosives in the hands of tots as he was when he appealed to piety to save the city administration from exposure of its shortcomings.

Not a single cogent argument has been advanced to justify the course that Council has followed in the fireworks matter.

If Mayor Kline has any respect for the mothers of Pittsburgh, who begged Council to end the fireworks menace, and have been slapped in the face for answer, he will veto the ordinance just passed, which authorizes the sale of the dangerous playthings to proceed.

Coal Strike Threatened

Deplorable Condition of the Mining Industry Is Again Brought to Public Attention.

The announcement of Patrick T. Fagan, president of District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers, that 4,000 coal miners in the Pittsburgh district will be called out on strike within the next few days again directs public attention to the deplorable condition of the mining industry.

The miners' union suffered a crushing defeat in the strike of a few years ago for the maintenance of the Jacksonville wage scale of $7.50 a day. Since then the operators have been running "open shop" if they ran at all, and paying whatever wages they chose. And many miners, faced with starvation, have been glad to get any work at any wages.

The strike that is now threatened is manifestly born of despair.

The Clean-Up Campaign

The clean-up campaign advocated by the Sun-Telegraph as a method to help relieve unemployment and at the same time make Pittsburgh a pleasanter city in which to live is progressing in a gratifying manner.

Director Lang announces plans for improving the appearance of the Monongahela water front. He will not wait for the approval of the navigation interests for his project to terrace the wharves, but for the sake of immediate action will proceed forthwith to repair all the paving in the wharf area. This will provide jobs for some of the unemployed who are registered with the Allegheny County Emergency Association.

The razing of abandoned ramshackle houses is about to start. This will also provide work for an appreciable number of men and at the same time will relieve the city of a danger.

The Department of Health reports that insanitary premises are being cleaned up.

The benefits to be derived from all these activities are not to be underestimated. They are a real boon to Pittsburgh.

Need of Playgrounds

These petitions have merit. Council will be rendering a genuine service, not only to the children and parents of the districts concerned, but to all the people of Pittsburgh, if it finds a way to grant them.

Children of the congested neighborhoods have greater need of playgrounds than those that live in the outlying and purely residential sections.

Forced to play in the streets, or to loaf on street corners, because other facilities for recreation are inadequate, the children of the crowded districts are exposed to the danger of being run over by automobiles or of coming under immoral influences. They are entitled to protection.

Painless Hunting

Why Not Painless War?

Big-game hunting will be put on a humane basis by a New York expedition to Borneo, Indo-China and Siam. Instead of using high-powered rifles, the explorers will fire thin needles loaded with morphine into the animals' bodies. A small powder charge will be used in the cartridge—enough to get the needle under the epidermis without causing permanent injury. The tiger, panther or wild elephant will topple over five minutes later and will then be caged and sent to American zoos.

This offers an idea to those interested in humanizing warfare. If one army could give another a "shot in the arm" and put it to sleep temporarily there would be no casualties. That would be an advantage.

A Phantom Holdup

By Nelson Harding

They are but phantom bandits, these,
Imaginary racketeers
That seem to halt and hold us up
And prey upon our groundless fears

Their ghostly hands no pistols hold
They're harmless if we but decide
To go ahead, for then we can Pass through them at our first bold stride!

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Petting—the Sport of Cheap-Sports

If "murmurous" is the most beautiful word in the English language, as has been decided by a London authority (though I prefer "glamorous"), certainly the ugliest, cheapest and vulgarest word is "necking."

* * *

Doesn't the very sight of that word in print give you a nauseous feeling? If you are sensitive to words, it does. And so does the silly word "petting."

* * *

There are some things that simply canNOT be idealized, even by adding soft music and moonlight; an ashcan, a limburger sandwich, a soap factory—and PETTING!

Sin may sometimes be alluring or thrilling—but petting isn't sin. It is merely cheap sport, on a par with eating peanuts in the theater.

* * *

Petting is to love-making what a scenic railway is to a trip abroad. Or what near-beer is to champagne.

* * *

It is standing in the breadline with the sentimental failures and the romantic bums. It is cheerfully and meekly accepting the scraps from the table of a man's affections.

* * *

It is admitting that you are delighted to be "anybody's darling" for the evening or the week-end party. It is accepting a "hand-out" instead of demanding an engraved invitation to the love-feast.

* * *

* * *

It is not clever nor beautiful; it is not even wicked and spicy. It is just sloppy and childish—and CHEAP!

* * *

* * *

No man who has had his fill of hot-dog sandwiches and pink ice cream has any zest or appetite for a good dinner. And no man who has indulged ad nauseum in easy petting and cheap "necking" has any enthusiasm left for real LOVE! Wood alcohol poisons the stomach; but free-and-easy petting poisons the soul. And robs woman of her life's greatest necessity—love and romance!

* * *

WHAT IS SCIENCE?

By Archibald Henderson

Science once meant knowledge, or the business of the acquisition of knowledge. This meaning is not applicable to science, as we know it today. Such a definition might equally apply to philosophy or theology, for example, the processes of which are totally different from those of science. It is certainly true that the scientist is concerned with the discovery of new truths. These truths were hidden from mankind; they perhaps lay off the beaten track or were veiled by barriers which had not yet been battered down. We call these truths new, not because they are manufactured, but because they are discovered.

Before the scientists can arrive at such new truths, he must bring to light new facts. If he is an inventor, he must learn how to make some new device, some hitherto unknown gadget, which will aid in doing the work of the world. If he is a pure scientist, he must discover some new process for accomplishing certain desired ends—say for the solution of an equation of the fifth degree or for determining the size of the electron.

It is not enough, however, merely to accumulate a mass of new or at least hitherto unknown facts. We might heap up masses of facts to the stars; and yet never get anywhere in science. For the scientist, it is indispensable that he accumulate facts which belong in the same category. It is hardly worth while to collect, indiscriminately, a lot of data regarding animals, minerals and skyscrapers. There is little or no connection between them. The scientists gathers facts which he can intimately relate. The purpose of the scientist in gathering facts, actually, is to relate them. They must be arranged in categories according to their relationships or likenesses.

Once the scientist has gathered a great mass of data and classified them in accordance with some intellible scheme, he then has to discover whether there is or is not some principle or law which controls or governs the data. All bodies, if released, have a tendency to fall. A profound analysis of this phenomenon led Newton to the formulation of the law of universal gravitation. There is an equation which expresses the law by which the earth attracts bodies; or indeed by which all bodies mutually attract each other.

It was this equation which Newton devised; and in doing so, formulated mathematically the law of universal gravitation. So far, however, scientists have not been able to determine WHY bodies attract each other, although they are able to determine how and in what proportions. Perhaps the scientists have not yet accumulated sufficient data to tell why; or else they have not learned how to relate these facts in the particular way necessary to elicit the desired principle or law.

A final step which the scientist takes is to arrange, to organize, the laws which he and others have discovered, in order to arrive at new combinations—new facts, new laws. Almost simultaneously Newton and Leibnitz are said to have "invented" the differential calculus. This statement is actually erroneous. The methods of the calculus had been used, more or less sporadically, for many centuries—as far back as the time of Zeno the Eleatic. Newton and Leibnitz were anticipated in the use of the methods of the calculus by Cavalieri, Fermat, Wallis, Barrow and others. But Newton and Leibnitz formulated the LAWS of the calculus, the logical and scientific justification of the methods which had been in use for centuries.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Well, Mother's Day has come and gone. And I "said it with flowers"—and a truly appreciative heart. My mother is a fine woman. I love and admire her as a woman. But I do not admire her merely because she is a mother. Nor do I think that any woman is entitled to respect and rewards simply because she has given birth.

Indeed, much of our enthusiasm over mothers is dangerous bunkum. I have never been able to see why ladies should have a day dedicated to them merely because they have reproduced their species. They didn't invent the process nor have they copyrighted it. Why should a female human, having had a baby at 20, think she's entitled to sit around and wear wreaths for the rest of her days?

"You have only one mother!" runs the solemn exhortation. And, all too frequently, that is quite enough. Sentimental tradition to the contrary, many citizens would have been much happier and healthier if they had been born in incubators.

"Mother—the most sacred name on earth!" runs another slogan. Oh, blah! It is the subsequent performance that ennobles motherhood—if it is ennobled. And the subsequent performance of multitudes of mothers is nil, or worse than nil.

If a plumber knew as little about his job as many mothers know about theirs, he'd be kicked out of his union within 24 hours. If a rancher cared for his stock as stupidly as many mothers care for their children, he'd be summoned before the Board of Health forthwith. And if teachers taught laziness, cowardice, disorder, dishonesty and general orneriness in school as some mothers by their example, teach it in the home, the whole town would rise in protest.

These statements, of course, will be indignantly denied. It is generally held that motherhood automatically endows a woman with superior qualities of mind and soul. The Misses may have been a quite ordinary, stupid femme before, but she rises a combination saint-and-encyclopedia. She is henceforth endowed with a mysterious attribute called "mother instinct" which is considered equivalent to a college course in physiology, psychology, philosophy, sociology, ethics and medica. Which is pure piffle. Obstetries may fill the census report, but it does not bulge the brain.

If it takes an earnest scientist a lifetime of study to determine why babies have tummy aches and tantrums, how can a young, ignorant mother acquire that knowledge in a couple of uncomfortable hours in a maternity ward? She can't. She must learn about tummy aches and tantrums exactly as other students learn about them—through training and study.

But the chances are she won't learn about them at all. For with everyone telling her that She's the Most Wonderful Thing on Earth, why should she bother to increase her store of knowledge?

As a consequence, mothers are one of the worst menaces civilization has to tackle. They have the softest racket on earth and are able to use it most viciously. And the brutal mother is not the most vicious. The spineless coddlers and the super-efficient despots do far more harm. But the whole tribe are so entrenched in sentimentality that the mere suggestion we "investigate" homes and mothers, as we now investigate factories and executives brings shrieks of horror. So Dear Mamma goes her way, undisturbed—turning out incompetents, misfits and neurotics—filling our jails and asylums and streets.

And right now it's about time for someone to mournfully remind me that "brave mothers go down into the shadows of death." It's admitted they do. And sometimes it is a very dark shadow. BUT HARD AS IT MAY BE TO HAVE A BABY, IT ISN'T A PATCH ON THE DIFFICULTY OF SUPPORTING THAT BABY FOR THE NEXT 21 YEARS. I know—for I've done both. Mamma may face a shadow for a few hours, but dad rassles with it for the rest of his lifetime. Yet no one goes around pinning medals on the old boy just because he's a papa.

All of which means simply this—that mothers, like other workers, should be honored when and if they deserve it . . . AND BAWLED OUT PLENTY WHEN THEY DON'T.

Interesting Antique

A HORSE'S BIT, 3,000 YEARS AGO.

This specimen of ancient artistic work and callous ancient cruelty was dug up at Luristan in Persia and it is about 3,000 years old.

The gentleman in the middle of this design appears to be some kind of demon with horns, endeavoring to push away the hands of the griffons that have seized upon him.

The important and very unpleasant thing is the thought that this contraption was put into the mouth of some beautiful Arab horse, that his prosperous and perhaps royal owner might control him with perfect ease and appear to possess exquisite "horsemanship."

You can imagine the feelings of the horse with this metal design, rough and cruel, pressing down upon his tongue and against the inside of his jaws.

You see some bits almost as bad today, with big "spoons" that run back along the horse's tongue, to keep him from getting the tongue over the bit. But you see nothing quite as unpleasant as this.

The little picture is worth printing because it emphasizes the fact that we have improved in our treatment of animals since the old days when even churches taught that "animals have no souls and therefore are not to be considered."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Vivian Gordon garroting tossed a stiff scare among those fluffy and so frequently hennaed Broadway ladies fictionists call "molls." As a rule they are graduated out of the cheap cabarets to become "girls" of gangsters and other ne'er-do-wells of the underworld.

They live on the mephitic fruits of soft money in prosperity and when adversity comes, as it always does, they resort to the oldest profession to support some wastrel. Their "important money" comes from blackmail for which they are in league with shyster lawyers.

Before the murder of the Gordon woman it was estimated that Broadway philanderers were paying at least a million a year to extortionate demands. Since then there has been a slowing up of extortion. Faked breach of promise suits dropped 75 per cent.

Such feminine types are confined almost exclusively to larger cities. As a rule they are faded beauties, cosmetically rehabilitated and expressing the forced gaiety of an abandoned mistress. And existing on the sugared crusts.

The gangster's girl is a bird of passage and always on the wing. One week she may have an apartment in the 70's and the next in a shabby Tenderloin hotel. She gives the impression of being "kept" by some well-known man she probably doesn't know and is constantly making vague references to him.

Her talk is flinty and sparks with phrases from the underworld. By hewing to the amorous line, the best she gets out of life is the temporary security of several months' lodging, a few fancy frocks, cheap jewelry and an occasional eye ringed in deep purple.

When arrested she poses as an "actress." And has numerous youthful pictures of herself for reporters. In the end almost invariably she becomes a haggard, bloated drug addict, more than likely to meet the tragic fate of a Vivian Gordon.

Imogene Wilson, enmeshed in a blood red scandal of the White Way, changed her name to Mary Nolan and won a deserved meed of praise in the movies. But in every story—just as it happens in this paragraph—the name Mary Nolan inspires an explanation her real name is Imogene Wilson. Changing a name is often an oblique bid for the very publicity the gesture seeks to avoid.

The English literati is hailing Corey Ford as America's outstanding humorist and comparing him to their own Jerome K. Jerome. Ford was born in New York 29 years ago and aside from authorizing a half-dozen books his literary critiques under his pseudonym "John Riddell" in "Vanity Fair" have blistered a number of literary lions. He is dapper, bright-eyed and as guileless looking as a fresh water college freshman.

For several years I have, at intervals, received anonymous and vituperative comments about my work in typewriting distinguished by an upside down b and a staggering j. It invariably wound up advising me "to go back to Pelican Center, you moss back." After a few years in this hoop-dee-do scathing letters lose their sting. Yet I often wondered about the identity of this epistoler. Today he called and revealed himself. I had written a fugitive, flattering line about his only daughter in professional work. ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You are plain, not good looking, and you feel it has interfered with your efforts to progress.

Good looks may not be more than skin deep, but the lack of good looks is not such an unsurmountable obstacle as you think. Some of the most unattractive men have been among the most successful men.

ISN'T IT SO?

PLEA FOR WIDER STREET MADE

The appeal was made due to traffic hazards caused by the inability of motorists to see approaching vehicles from either thoroughfare, he said. At the board's instigation, a traffic policeman has been stationed Sundays from 2 until 9 o'clock at the intersection.
